AF NAMES 4756 FOR CAPTAIN RANK

The Air Force got its fiscal '56 temporary promotion program off to a fast start this week with announcement of 4756 selections to temporary captain. THE JOURNAL publishes, on pages 3 and 28 of this issue, the names of all Chaplains, Medical Service, Nurse and Women Medical Specialist selectees and the names of all USAF List first lieutenants selected for captain who are to be promoted through 15 Nov.

Expected late this month or early in November are the names of captains selected for temporary major.

The captain selections included 4422 on the USAF list, 78 Chaplains, 6 Women Medical Specialist, 152 Nurse and 98 Medical Service officers.

PORTSMOUTH, VA.

The Navy, in a one-two seapower punch, commissioned the USS Forrestal here on 1 Oct. and prepared to commission the 60,000-ton carrier USS Saratoga at the New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn, on 8 Oct.

Admiral Arthur Radford, USN, who was a leading Naval advocate for construction of the huge carriers against strong opposition, is scheduled to deliver the principal address at the Saratoga ceremonies.

The JCS Chairman was here, with Admiral Arleigh Burke, USN, Chief of

60 for CVA-60

The Navy enters the 60,000 ton class with the christening on 8 Oct. of the USS Saratoga, "big" sister ship of the USS Forrestal.

The Saratoga, CVA-60, is described in an official brochure as a 60,000-ton ship.

The Forrestal, CVA-59, weighed in at 59,650 tons in the official program distributed at last week's commissioning ceremonies.

Both will be known outside the Navy as "super" carriers.

Naval Operations, to hear Assistant Navy Secretary James H. Smith hail the Forrestal as the first stage in the development of a "mobile nuclear reprisal force."

Mr. Smith, describing the Forrestal commissioning as "an event which marks the beginning of a new Navy, and with it a new concept of national defensive

Army Slashes Red Tape To Aid Families Of All Services In "Household" Loss

The Brooklyn Army Terminal, with Pentagon approval, has taken extraordinary action to aid 220 Army, Navy, Air Force and civilian families whose household goods were damaged aboard the freighter SS American Defender, out of Bremerhaven, Germany.

As a result, damage claims are expected to be settled months quicker than if normal procedures were followed. Navy families will get salvagable items weeks earlier than had been thought possible.

The action is certain to be a morale booster in all the Services.

Here's the story:

When the American Defender arrived at the Brooklyn base, it was discovered that 475 pieces of household goods, weighing about 980 tons, and belonging to 220 families had been damaged by water in the No. 3 hatch.

Brig. Gen. James Glore, USA, Terminal Commander, recommended to Maj. Gen.

BRIG. GEN. CARL I. HUTTON, USA
Commanding General, The Army
Aviation Center

THE great "Centers" of the Army, under Continental Army Command, have both visible and invisible functions. They support the service schools and the operations of other agencies such as the CONARC Boards and the assigned T/O & E troops. In the invisible realm, the Centers serve as focal points for the correlation of new developments in doctrine and materiel. The title, "The Army Aviation Center" implies that it has the same function in this respect as The Infantry Center, The Artillery Center, and The Armored Center.

The aviation technological field is moving at a very fast pace, not only in super-sonics, but in such areas as VTOL aircraft, convertiplanes, steep gradient aircraft, helicopters, flying platforms, and other lift devices such as the still experimental coleopter. No one can be certain what the impact of this technological growth will be upon ground warfare. It is not a simple question which can be answered categorically at any one instant in time. The problem is to achieve and maintain power and flexibility to adapt new materiel to the Army's needs.

The Army Aviation Center, over and above those functions which are included in The Army Aviation School, the major activity of the Center, monitors technological developments in all aviation fields in order to make recommendations to the Commanding General, Continental Army Command, when action appears to be necessary. The Center performs an Army-wide function. In the present organization of the Army, the closest parallel to its operation is the airborne program. The objective being sought is a wide base of knowledge and experience rather than compartmentation. The Center, therefore, represents Infantry, Armor, and Artillery, as well as the chiefs of the technical services.

The Army Aviation Center is composed, in addition to Headquarters staff, of the Army Aviation School, the 351st Regimental Combat Team, Board Number 6, strength," said the mighty new carrier "represents a major step designed to provide the United States and the free world with a realistic means of survival at manageable cost in this nuclear age."

In an address heard by about 2500 of the Forrestal's ultimate complement of 3500 crewmen and another 3000 guests, Mr. Smith declared that "it will be the existence outside the United States of American controlled bases for powerful reprisal forces that will preclude or dilute enemy attacks on our country."

Mr. Smith continued: "This concept of the mobile striking force based away from centers of population is the essential counter to the threat of thermo-nuclear war." He said the Forrestal's capability "is being augmented by missile-firing submarines and cruisers and by attack seaplanes exploiting the broad reaches of the seas for their bases."

President W. E. Blewett, Jr., of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Corp., turned over the $198,000,000 vessel to RAdm. I. N. Kiland, USN, commandant of the 5th Naval District, who then called upon Cdr. F. L. McGann, ChC, to deliver the invocation.

Capt. Roy L. Johnson, USN, took command of the ship after the playing of the National Anthem and hoisting of the colors, jack, and commission pennant. He ordered the first watch set at 1427.

The ship's crew heard Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas tell them that the Forrestal "is the symbol of the future. She is a dream come true. She is the central unit of the fleet of tomorrow."

In similar vein Adm. Arleigh Burke, USN, Chief of Operations, who with Admiral Radford played a prominent role in the fight for the big carriers, said, she is "a symbol of the Navy's progress and determination to maintain the most effective combat service in the world."

Gala plans for commissioning ceremonies at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard were dampened slightly as rain and overcast forced changes in plans for a spectacular flyover of Naval aircraft. This was to have seen six carrier-based F9F-8 Cougars, which had taken off from the carrier USS Shangri-La off San Diego, Calif., salute the Forrestal crowd enroute to the Naval Air Station at Oceana, Va. Two landed enroute, but the others made the crossing in 3 hours 56 minutes.

Simultaneously, a flight of three Douglas A3D "Skywarrior" bombers raced from Edwards AFB, Calif., to Patuxent NAS, Md., in three hours and 35 minutes.

Here Are Officers Of the USS Forrestal

Serving under Capt. Roy L. Johnson, USN, Commanding Officer of the USS Forrestal, and Cdr. Edward L. Anderson, USN, executive officer, are six commanders who are department heads.

They are Arthur J. Brassfield, operations; Eugene G. Fairfax, navigator; Edwin G. Schwab, air; Vance Fowler, supply; Frank V. Voris, medical; William W. Gentry, engineering; David A. Hill, dental; and Julian E. Rawls, gunnery. All are USN.

Heads Forrestal's Security Detachment

Capt. Harry L. Alderman, USMC, is Commanding Officer of the 75-man Marine Detachment charged with providing security details aboard the carrier USS Forrestal.

His Executive Officer is 1st Lt. Charles H. Black, USMC.

Both officers rose from enlisted ranks and saw action during the Korean War.

All 74 enlisted men assigned to the Forrestal were trained for security detail at the Marine Corps' Sea School in San Diego, Calif.

Army Cuts Red Tape To Aid Families

Paul F. Yount, USA, Chief of Transportation, that representatives of the 220 families be ordered to the port on five days TDY to expedite handling of claims and processing of goods.

General Yount, in turn, won quick approval from Pentagon superiors.

Orders then went out to families in all the Services throughout the country.

On arrival at the Brooklyn Terminal, they are being shown their household goods. Where damage cannot be repaired, the items are discarded. Immediately, claim forms are filled out under centralized and expert direction.

Where it is possible to salvage household goods such as dishes, these are being repacked in new crates and shipped on to new destinations in short order. Col. Leland Miller, USA, executive officer, told THE JOURNAL that the on-the-spot checking and repacking will result in considerable savings.

Colonel Miller explained that in many crates the excelsior and other packing material has become waterlogged, with loss of the cushion effect which prevents damage.

Colonel Miller said that in addition to the Service families, authority was given to issue invitation orders to persons who had left the Service prior to the arrival of the vessel.

The colonel reported that first arrivals at the Brooklyn base have been enthusiastic over the emergency assistance made possible by General Glone's proposal to Washington.

Cdr. Clement Named Def. Dept. Press Chief

A veteran news reporter and editor, who was a World War II naval officer, has been named chief of the Press Branch in the Defense Department office of Public Information.

He is Cdr. Hunt Clement, jr., USNR, who served with the amphibious forces in the Southwest Pacific. He has been with the Defense Department since 1949, serving recently as Deputy Chief of the Press Branch.

His appointment as Chief, announced by Public Information Director, C. Hershel Schooley, who also is a Reserve Navy Commander, followed the retirement last week of Joseph R. Flynn, who brought to a close a notable career in newspaper and government information work.

Deputy Comptroller Named For Defense Dept.

Lee R. Shannon, Budget Director of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company in Akron, Ohio, since 1946, and a wartime Civilian Manager of the Blue Grass Ordnance Depot at Richmond, Ky., has assumed the new office of Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller).

He will work with Assistant Defense Secretary W. J. McNeil, with primary responsibility for programming and planning the varied functions of the Comptroller's office.

Mr. Shannon is a certified public accountant and attorney.

Mail O'seas Christmas Gifts Early, DoD Asks

Christmas parcels for members of the Armed Forces overseas should be mailed between 15 Oct. and 15 Nov., the Defense Department says.

Boxes being sent overseas must be made of double-faced corrugated cardboard, strong wood, metal or fibreboard. Loose flaps should be sealed with gummed tape.

Packages addressed to APO's or NPO's should not weigh more than 70 pounds, except those being mailed to Great Britain where the limitation is 50 pounds. Packages should not be more than 100 inches in length and girth combined.

To Lecture On Army Personnel Policies

Maj. Gen. Donald P. Booth, USA, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, will deliver an address on Army Personnel Policies on 14 Oct., 8:00 P.M., in the Sternberg Auditorium, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be available in the Officers' Open Mess.

Army Officer OEI's Ready At Pentagon

Army officers who wish to see their 1955 Overall Efficiency Indexes may now do so in person at the Pentagon or by giving another officer written authorization.

Career branches are not authorized to release OEI's by letter or telephone.

The OEI, computed once each year, reflects an officer's relative numerical standing as compared to all other Army officers. Although not an absolute indicator of an officer's efficiency, career management officials point out that "it is one of several important factors considered in determining individual personnel actions."

Overall Efficiency Indexes range from 51 to 150 with the middle officer receiving an index of 100. Two-thirds of all officers fall between 80 and 120; the remaining one-third is evenly divided below 80 and above 120.

It was emphasized that the OEI is merely an indication of an officer's manner of performance during his past five years of service. It is re-computed each year by dropping the oldest year's reports and adding the latest rating. No OEI is computed on an officer who has less than 12 months' rated time in the last five years.

An interested officer may obtain his OEI by either personally visiting his particular Career Management Branch or giving another officer written authorization to review his record and obtain his OEI. More specific information regarding an officer's relative standing by branch and grade can also be obtained.

Convair Builds TF-102A Side-by-Side Trainer

The first of an undisclosed number of combat proficiency trainers for the Convair F-102A all-weather Air Force jet interceptor was rolled out of the San Diego plant of Convair Division of General Dynamics Corporation this week to begin pre-flight tests at Lindbergh Field. Flight tests will begin at Edwards AFB, Calif. later this month.

Convair has received two Air Force production orders for the delta-wing trainers, designated the TF-102A.

The two-place side-by-side TF-102A was designed to familiarize trained jet pilots with the F-102A's performance as an integrated weapon rather than as simply another jet airplane, according to R. C. Sebold, Convair's vice president of engineering.

The TF-102A could, if the need arose, be flown as a fully tactical interceptor aircraft by either one or two pilots. Outwardly, the TF-102A differs from the F-102A primarily in a wider nose section. These sections are being fabricated at Convair's Fort Worth plant and are shipped to San Diego for mating with the fuselage and wing.

AF Will Promote 987 To Captain By 15 Nov.; 4422 By 30 April '56

THE Air Force, in releasing selections to captain this week, reported that 987 USAF list first lieutenants will receive higher rank by 15 November.

The remaining promotions will be made in almost daily increments through 30 April 1956.

Below THE JOURNAL publishes the schedule of promotion dates and the names of those who will receive higher rank through mid-November.

Subsequent issues will publish the remaining selections and the date of their advancement.

Army Electronic PG Building Program

The Army Electronic Proving Ground's planned expenditure of $30 million for permanent construction during the next three years is an indication of Ft. Huachuca's permanence in the Southern Arizona economy.

So said Maj. Gen. Emil Lenzner, AEPG Commanding General, in an address at a Tucson, Ariz., Chamber of Commerce luncheon honoring his advancement to the rank of major general.

Speaking to 250 businessmen and industrialists, Gen. Lenzner stated that, in addition, technical contracts totaling at least $10 million would be let during the coming year. Already $5 million of such contracts have been awarded. Activation of the Fort in February 1954 has already led to $1,750,000 in "housekeeping" procurement purchases in Arizona, he added.

It is anticipated that construction of 500 Wherry housing units for officers, NCOs and key civilians will begin this month. Construction of 250 MCA (Military Construction Army) housing units is slated for early next year.

Benning's New Nurse Chief

Lt. Col. Clara M. Kiely, ANC, assumed duties 1 Oct. as chief nurse of the U.S. Hospital at Ft. Benning, Ga. She replaces Lt. Col. Marie G. Smith, ANC, named chief nurse of the U.S. Army Hospital at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Colonel Kiely was chief nurse of the U.S. Army Hospital at Ft. Meade, Md., from June 1954 until her assignment to The Infantry Center.

Reorganization of Army Ports Brings 3 Transportation Terminal Commands

All Army Ports of Embarkation and their out-ports and sub-ports in this country have been reorganized into three separate Transportation Terminal Commands.

Effective 1 Oct., the new commands are responsible for all terminal operations and related activities along their entire respective coastlines.

Although the new commands will be located initially along the coastlines, they may later be moved to more centralized inland locations to provide greater flexibility and dispersal of facilities in event of mobilization.

The new terminal command organization is expected to facilitate activation of as many military terminals and the utilization of as many commercial terminals as may be required with maximum speed and efficiency. Better coordination of operations for an entire coastline, centralizing many staff functions at the terminal command level and consolidating all operation functions at the local terminal level, also is expected to result from the new set-up.

The New York Port of Embarkation at Brooklyn has become the Atlantic Terminal Command. Its subordinate installations, the Brooklyn Army Base and Hampton Roads Sub-Port of Embarkation, have been renamed the Brooklyn Army Terminal and the Hampton Roads Army Terminal, respectively. Also included in the Atlantic Command is the newly activated Sunny Point, N. C., Army Terminal.

The New Orleans Port of Embarkation has become the New Orleans Army Terminal under the Gulf Terminal Command. Headquarters is at New Orleans. The Gulf Command also includes the Theodore Army Terminal at Theodore, Ala.

The third command on the West Coast, called the Pacific Terminal Command, will include the Ports of Embarkation at Seattle and San Francisco. Headquarters will be at San Francisco.

Army Reserve Unit Aids Air Defense Effort

Lt. Gen. S. R. Mickelsen, USA, has announced formation of an Army Reserve unit in Colorado Springs, Colo., composed of officers who will be assigned to the Army Antiaircraft Command headquarters in event of emergency.

The unit has been designated the 5101st USAR Control Group, Colorado Detachment No. 2 (AA Command) of the Ready Reserves. It is under the administrative supervision of the Colorado Military District.

Maj. Paul L. Brose, USAR, was named commanding officer of the organization. In event of mobilization, he will serve in the engineer section of the Army Antiaircraft Command headquarters.

NEW MEDICAL SPECIALIST CORPS ASSISTANT CHIEF

Maj. Myra L. McDaniel has been appointed Chief of the Occupational Therapist Section and Assistant Chief of the Army Medical Specialist Corps, and will be advanced to lieutenant colonel. She succeeds Lt. Col. Helen R. Sheehan, who will become chief occupational therapist at Letterman Army Hospital, San Francisco.

An Army occupational therapist since 1945, when she completed her clinical affiliation at Crile General Hospital, Major McDaniel comes to her new assignment from Valley Forge Army Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa., where she was the chief occupational therapist. Previously, she had been Director of the Army Occupational Therapy School, Medical Field Service School, Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. Major McDaniel has also been chief occupational therapist at Madigan Army Hospital, Tacoma, Wash., and Fitzsimons Army Hospital, Denver, Colo.

Res. Training Meeting Set Up at CONARC Hq.

The sixth annual Army Reserve Training conference will be held 11-13 Oct. at the Continental Army Command Headquarters, Ft. Monroe, Va.

Sponsored by the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3 (Training), Department of the Army, the conference will be organized into five committees whose chairmen will be drawn from various Army Department Staff agencies. The "working level" conference will consider organization and troop programs, training policies and plans, personnel and administration, funding and space allocations, and supply, equipment and facilities.

Ft. Sill Turns Out For Gen. Taylor

General Maxwell D. Taylor made his first visit to the Artillery and Guided Missile Center, Ft. Sill, Okla., as Army Chief of Staff on 1 Oct.

A 17-gun salute and an honor guard greeted General Taylor when he arrived at the Oklahoma installation.

The Chief of Staff was welcomed by Maj. Gen. Edward T. Williams, Commanding General, Artillery and Guided Missile Center.

While General Taylor and Ft. Sill officials watched, the 12 jets from Clovis AFB swooped over the viewing stands to achieve a sonic boom.

Other features of the display were the dropping of 500-pound high-explosive bombs, napalm bombs, and the firing of five-inch rockets on targets.

General Williams was host at an official luncheon for the Chief of Staff in the Ft. Sill Polo Club.

Among those attending were Brig. Gen. J. E. Theimer, assistant commandant, The Artillery and Guided Missile School; Brig. Gen. J. B. Horton, deputy commanding general, Artillery and Guided Missile Center, and Col. R. G. Crandall, Chief of Staff, A&GMC.

General Taylor conferred with General Williams before leaving for a tour of Snow Hall, home of The Artillery and Guided Missile School.

Afterwards he attended a briefing of the Artillery Officer Candidate School by Col. W. A. Enemark, OCS commandant, and visited a battery's buildings.

Before his departure, the Chief of Staff made an inspection of the recently established Army Aviation Unit Training Command at Ft. Sill.

Col. Mautz Is Director

Col. Matthew C. Mautz, USA, former Director of the Department of Specialist Training, has been named Director of the Officers' Department of The Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Previously, he served as Assistant Chief of Staff, Plans and Training, (G-3), at the Signal Corps installation.

Colonel Mautz succeeds Col. James N. Purcell, USA, who is now serving as Commanding Officer of The Signal School's Student Regiment.

New Regulation Defines Gen. Gavin's Duties

What will be the duties of Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, USA, in his new post as Chief of Research and Development?

The answer is found in Changes 11 to SR 10-5-1, just made available at the Pentagon.

General Gavin has been Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Research.

It is expected that Maj. Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, USA, will be named Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and will be given a third star.

Here are General Gavin's responsibilities:

Chief of Research and Development, a General. The Chief of Research and Development is responsible to the Chief of Staff for planning, coordinating, directing, and supervising all Army research and development. Within his scope of responsibility, the Chief of Research and Development's relationship to the Chief of Staff and the Army Staff corresponds to that of a Deputy Chief of Staff. In the fulfillment of his responsibilities, the Chief of Research and Development deals directly with the technical staffs and services but coordinates closely with the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics before issuing any directives. (Personnel and funds for research and development activities of the technical services will be allotted to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics and suballotted by the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics to the technical services as requested by the Chief of Research and Development.)

b. Major functions.
(1) Policies, plans, and programs. Formulates, coordinates, directs, and supervises the execution of Army research and development policies, plans, and programs, including those pertaining to operations, human resources, and global environmental research; monitors the materiel segment of the Army Combat Development Program; supervises engineering and user test programs; and effects coordination of the Army's research and development programs with other Army programs and activities, as necessary.

(2) Research and development projects and priorities. Assigns and allocates responsibility for research and development projects; assigns and revises research and development project priorities in consonance with Army plans; and recommends, to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics, construction priorities for research and development facilities.

(3) Military characteristics of new items. Formulates and establishes, in coordination with Interested Department of the Army agencies, the Department of the Army position with respect to new inventions and the military characteristics of new items.

(4) Qualitative requirements. Establishes, in coordination with Interested Department of the Army agencies, a Department of the Army position on qualitative requirements for items of equipment to be used by the Army.

(5) Combat and technical intelligence. In coordination with the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, monitors research and development aspects of combat and technical intelligence.

(6) Scientific manpower. Plans, coordinates, and supervises Army programs for the utilization of scientific manpower, in consonance with manpower utilization policies of the Army Establishment.

(7) Standardization programs. Establishes policies and procedures for and supervises Army participation in the American-British-Canadian Army Standardization Program, the Mutual Weapons Development Program, and the research and development portion of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Materiel Standardization Program; and makes recommendations to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics regarding requests by the British and Canadian governments for the loan of standard equipment under the provisions of the ABC Army Standardization Program.

(8) Army plans and estimates. Prepares the research and development section of Army plans and estimates as appropriate. Furnishes the Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans with estimates of technological progress under Research and Development Programs and estimates of technological capabilities for specific periods of time.

(9) Budget. In conformance with policies and procedures established by the Comptroller of the Army, assists in the preparation and execution of the research and development portions of the Army budget. Provides the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics with implementing instructions for inclusion in logistics budget directives to the technical services.

What Others Say...

COLONEL ALVIN M. OWSLEY, Past National Commander, American Legion: "... one of the great documents of our times. A factual account of those who betrayed our country and how the sell-out was brought about. A strong denunciation of those who would destroy us and a valiant support of the principles and ideals, honesty and morality that can save us as a Nation."

SENATOR WILLIAM A. LANGER, former Chairman, Senate Judiciary Committee: "I think it ought to be compulsory reading in every public school in the United States."

J. M. HAZLITT, syndicated columnist: "The most startling, challenging and alarming writing of the past 50 years. Things in your own memory, which seemed paradoxical and puzzling at the time, will shine forth as pieces that fit the pattern."

Colonel John Beaty
Campbellton Farm
Barboursville, Va.

My dear Colonel Beaty:

Your book, THE IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA, has been in my library for nearly two years. I have read it several times, reserving my opinion of it until time had allowed my observation of the political and social situation.

It is after mature and careful thought upon the present position of this republic, and some travel abroad to make certain of the impact of our foreign policies, that I feel I can pass judgement on this extraordinary book.

Things which have happened in the time under observation fit so perfectly into the pattern set forth in THE IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA, that I am impelled to write to you to express my great admiration of your great service to the nation in writing this truly magnificent book. No American who has taken the oath of allegiance can afford to miss it, and I can heartily recommend it as an honest and courageous dispeller of the fog of propaganda in which most minds seem to dwell. In my opinion the salvation of our country could come about through the widest dissemination of THE IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA. You have proved, thank God, that patriotism is not dead.

Sincerely,

P.A. del Valle

THE IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA

by COLONEL JOHN BEATY

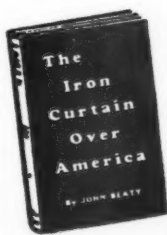

THE BOOK THEY COULDN'T SUPPRESS

The forces of Communism and Leftism tried to suppress this book through the control they exercise over the book sections of so many newspapers and periodicals and retail book dealers. "It is a reflection on our press and great publishing houses that this book has received little or no mention among book reviews, and that every effort is being made to stop its distribution and sale," said General George Van Horn Moseley, USA (ret.).

Yet the book is now in its 12th printing with almost 50,000 copies sold. Why, Because it tells the documented truth about the forces which have guided our ruinous foreign policy and about the censorship which has concealed the facts from the American people. And it was written by the one man who could best write it. A veteran of World War I, John Beaty served nearly five years in World War II with the War Department General Staff. He wrote military studies, edited the daily intelligence summary, and headed important sections in the Military Intelligence Service.

With an established reputation as an author and scholar, a familiarity with foreign lands and languages, and his experience in Intelligence work, Colonel Beaty was uniquely prepared for the post-war research which led to the book's writing. A vitally dramatic book. Biggest reading value of the past 10 years. Only ... $3.00

Navy Offers SC Duty To Reg. Line Officers

The Navy is seeking applications from Regular Line officers who wish to make careers in the Supply Corps.

Eligible to apply are officers not above the rank of lieutenant who have completed a minimum of one year of sea duty, and lieutenant commanders who are not physically qualified for Line duty.

The Navy particularly wants applications from Naval Academy graduates who have been issued revocable commissions as ensign, USN, because they have not met the physical standards required for duty in the Line.

All applications should be forwarded to the Chief of Naval Personnel through commanding officers in time to reach the Bureau of Naval Personnel by 7 Feb. 56. The requests will be acknowledged by the Chief of Personnel who will retain them on file for consideration by a selection board which is slated to convene on 21 Feb. 56.

Selected officers will be ordered to the Supply Corps School, Athens, Ga., for instruction. Each applicant is requested to include in his application a statement to the effect that if selected for Supply Corps duty, he will not resign or request release from active duty during the School's curriculum and that he agrees to serve on active duty for at least one year after completing the course.

Complete details are contained in BuPers Notice 1210.

New Navy Sqdn. Added To Early Warning Net

A third unit, Airborne Early Warning Squadron 15, has been added to the recently formed Airborne Early Warning Wing, Atlantic, based at NAS Patuxent River, Md.

VW-15's commanding officer is Cdr. Stephen J. Riordan, USN, who reports to his new post from duty on the Staff of Commander, Carrier Division in Korea.

Other squadrons comprising AEWLant are VW-11 and VW-13. The mission of the new wing is to provide Atlantic coastal protection through early warning in the event of an enemy attack.

The new squadron was placed in commission by Capt. John W. Byng, USN, Acting Wing Commander, on 1 Oct. Cdr. William P. Lane, ChC, USN, delivered the invocation during the ceremony.

VADM Arthur C. Davis, USN (Ret.) left, receives from Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson a gold star in lieu of a second Distinguished Service Medal for his service as Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense (International Security Affairs) from 20 April 1954 to 29 Sept. 1955.

RAdm. Moore Named Assistant Chief, BuMed

RAdm. French R. Moore, MC, USN, has succeeded RAdm. Thomas F. Cooper, MC, USN, as Assistant Chief for Planning and Logistics, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

Admiral Cooper has assumed duties as Inspector General, Medical Department Activities; the IG post was held by RAdm. H. Lamont Pugh, MC, USN, who is the new Commanding Officer of the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.

Admiral Moore, a graduate of the University of Oregon Medical School, reported to his new post from duties as Third Naval District Medical Officer.

During WWII, he distinguished himself while serving as Division Surgeon of the 2d Marine Division. For exceptional meritorious conduct, on separate occasions, during the Guadalcanal and Tarawa campaigns, the Admiral was awarded the Legion of Merit with Combat "V." He also was awarded the Purple Heart Medal.

USMC Board Convenes To Choose 594 Majors

A Marine Corps selection board has convened at Headquarters to pick 594 active duty captains for major's rank.

Of the total number, the board is authorized to select 523 unrestricted, 34 limited duty and 37 supply duty captains for advancement. The unrestricted and supply duty officer zone ends with Capt. Robert J. Epperson, USMC, lineal number 1416; the LDO zone terminates with Capt. Kenneth M. Stayer, USMC, lineal position 833 in the 1 Jan. 55 Register.

The board is headed by Brig. Gen. Randall M. Victory. Other board members are: Brigadier General William W. Stickney; Colonels Harold G. Newhart, James M. Daly, Clyde T. Mattison, Merlyn D. Holmes, Charles S. Todd, Stuart M. Charlesworth, William H. Barba, Francis H. Cooper, Alvin S. Sanders and Albert J. Roose; and Captains Robert Kersbergen, Recorder, and Robert A. Yackel, Assistant Recorder.

Col. J. Mills Commands Phila. Marine Barracks

Col. James E. Mills, USMC, has assumed command of the Marine Barracks, Philadelphia, Pa.

He succeeded Lt. Col. Robert M. Hanna, USMC, who has served as interim commanding officer since 1 June when Col. William A. Kingla, USMC was reassigned duty as Senior Marine Corps Advisor to the Republic of Korea Navy.

Colonel Hanna resumes duties as Executive Officer of the Marine Barracks.

Colonel Mills reported to his new post from Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he was Commanding Officer of Supporting Arms Regiment for the past two years.

The Colonel and his wife, the former Marguerite Titus, will make their home in quarters on the base. They have two daughters: Laurie, 13; and Dianne Marie, 8.

RAdm. Hogan Elected Delegate-At-Large

RAdm. Bartholomew W. Hogan, MC, USN, Surgeon General of the Navy, has been elected a delegate-at-large of the American Hospital Association's House of Delegates, for a three-year term.

The Admiral was notified of his election by Doctor Edwin L. Crosby, Director of the Association, following the House of Delegates' third session recently concluded in Atlantic City, N. J.

Capt. Newman Attends Aero-Med Assn. Meet

Capt. Langdon C. Newman, MC, USN, Director of the Aviation Medicine Division of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, and a Member of the Executive Council of the Aero-Medical Association, will represent the Navy at the Council's meeting which is slated to be held in Chicago, Ill., 14 to 17 Oct.

COL. KENNETH W. BENNER, USMC, (left), signs assumption of command papers after replacing Col. McDonald I. Shuford as Commanding Officer of Service Battalion, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N. C. Formerly the Commanding Officer of the Marine Barracks, Naval Base, Brooklyn, N. Y., Colonel Benner arrived at Lejeune with his wife Evelyn and their five children. 1st Lt. Joseph J. Huron, USMC, standing, Battalion Adjutant, assists the new Commanding Officer. Colonel Shuford was transferred to Hq., AirFMFLant, Norfolk, Va.

Cols. Dailey & Moore Swap CherPt Commands

Col. Frank G. Dailey, USMC, and Col. Luther S. Moore, USMC, have switched commands at MCAS, Cherry Point, N. C.

Colonel Dailey assumes duties as Assistant Commanding General of the 2d MAW, and Colonel Moore takes over as Commanding Officer, MTG-20.

During WWII, Colonel Dailey was assigned to the staff of Admiral Marc A. Mitscher and was instrumental in launching the first carrier-based air attacks against the Japanese mainland. It was the napalm-laden Corsairs of the Colonel's command which broke the Communist hold around the Pusan Perimeter in Korea, permitting Marine ground elements to break out of the area.

Colonel Moore, before reporting to the Air Station on 18 August, was Deputy Chief of Staff, FMF, Pacific.

EM May Leave USMC Early To Enter College

Enlisted Marines, desiring to enter college or planning to resume college education, may apply to the Commandant for early separation.

In some cases, men may be separated 90 days earlier than the date of the normal expiration of their obligated service. Requests, Headquarters says, must be accompanied by a statement from an appropriate college official verifying the fact that the applicant has been accepted for admission and that his transcript of records from other schools meets the college or university standards.

In addition, the applicant also must show that he would be unduly handicapped by a delay in entering college after his normal date of separation.

Early separations will not be granted for attendance at summer school, night school, part-time school, or trade school. If a request is granted, the date of separation will not be earlier than 90 days prior to a normal separation date, and not earlier than 10 days before the registration date required by a college.

Complete details are contained in Marine Corps Memo, 73-55.

Arnold Educational Fund
Aids 70 In College

The General Henry H. Arnold Educational Fund of the Air Force Aid Society is sponsoring 70 students in college for the 1955-56 school year with an average scholarship of $420.

Of this number, 18 are children of deceased Air Force personnel, seven are children of retired Air Force personnel, and 45 are children of Air Force personnel on active duty.

The Educational Fund provides college scholarships or vocational training scholarships above the high school level to dependent children of Air Force personnel. These scholarships are not competitive but are based upon financial need. Children whose fathers died while on active duty or as a direct result of their service have first priority.

The Educational Fund will continue assisting a student until undergraduate work is completed as long as passing grades are maintained and the student continues to meet all eligibility requirements. Scholarships are furnished for one year at a time and request for renewal of a scholarship must be made by the student. So far no eligible applicant has been refused assistance and no student sponsored has been forced to leave school because of financial difficulties. Students are permitted to attend the school of their choice as long as it is accredited, and are required to make all arrangements for admission.

The scholarships do not cover the entire expenses. It is expected that the parents furnish an appropriate share of the expenses and that the student earn part of the costs through employment during the summer and the school year. Assistance is furnished as a grant, a loan, or a combination of both, depending upon the financial need of the applicant. Loans are made without interest and are to be repaid after the student graduates or leaves school permanently.

Requests for application blanks or for more detailed information regarding the Educational Fund should be made to: Director, Air Force Aid Society, Washington 25, D. C.

Col. Hughes Is CofS

Col. Harold L. Hughes, USAF, former Commander of the 1822nd AACS Group, Randolph AFB, Tex., has been named Chief of Staff for the Airways and Air Communications Service.

A veteran AACS officer, Colonel Hughes previously served in Newfoundland as Commander of the 1933d AACS Squadron and Deputy Commander of the 1805th AACS Wing, and at Tinker AFB, Oklahoma, as Chief of Staff of the 1800th AACS Wing.

PERSONNEL SERVICES OFFICERS representing the three Air Defense Forces met recently with their chief, Col. Harry C. 303d TAKES PAYNE JENNINGS TROPHY

For three wins racked up over a ten-month period in Fifteenth Air Force competitive bomber-stream missions, the 303d Bomb Wing, from Davis-Monthan AFB, Ariz., has been awarded possession of the Payne Jennings Trophy.

Named for a former bomb group commander who lost his life in Korea, the trophy signifies "outstanding achievement in all phases of combat-type missions."

The 303d's recent performance in "Operation Ham Shack" was coupled with bomber-stream victories in Dec. 1954 and May of this year.

In addition, eleven 15th AF crew members were named recipients of coveted Commander's Trophies after "Ham Shack" scores had been totaled. Again the requirement was that an individual must have qualified twice in former bomber-stream missions to become eligible. The Commander's Trophy is a scale-model of the B-47 Stratojet, mounted on a base engraved with the winner's name.

Following is the list of officers who moved into the winner's circle as a result of their "Ham Shack" performance: from the 43d Bomb Wing (Davis-Monthan AFB), Capt. John W. Vega, 1st Lt. Charles M. Rush, and Capt. John D. Pattison; from the 303d (Davis-Monthan AFB), Lt. Col. Richard B. Smith, Maj. John O. Canfield, and Maj. John R. Campbell; from the 22d Bomb Wing (March AFB), Maj. William P. Reed, Capt. Thomas E. Hopper; from the 320th Bomb Wing (March AFB), Maj. Fred J. Sweatt, and Maj. Louis Martinich, jr.

Previously, only one other individual had qualified for the Commander's Trophy. He is Lt. Col. Jose L. Holguin, from the 93d Bomb Wing, Castle AFB, Calif.

New Guns Focal Point Of Engineers Meeting

The development of two new guns was the chief topic of discussion at the recent engineering coordination conference at the Air Force Armament Center, Eglin AFB, Fla.

The guns are a 20 mm cannon, which operates on the same principle as the first successful machine gun, and a 30 mm cannon, which operates on a revolver principle and also offers a high rate of fire of high explosive projectiles. It is a refinement of one the Germans developed late in WWII.

The conference, which was under the direction of the Springfield Armory Division of the Army Ordnance Corps, was attended by representatives of three contractor firms which are working on the guns: General Electric, Buffalo Arms, Inc., and the Ford Company. Also in attendance were experts from the various services. Testing of the two guns has been underway at the Center for several months.

Anti-Collision Lights
Ordered For AF Planes

The Air Force is installing anti-collision light systems on all of its cargo and transport type aircraft. The lights are intended to provide better sighting of aircraft in flight to reduce the possibility of collision.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration has ordered the anti-collision lights installed on all commercial aircraft of 12,500 pounds and over that are engaged in interstate commerce. The commercial installation must be made by 31 May 1956.

Several hundred Air Force planes are involved in the present phase of the program in which the lights are being installed in such a position that they may be viewed from a 360-degree angle around the line of flight of the aircraft.

In some cases more than one light per plane is necessary to cover the area of distribution, the Air Force said.

Holloman JA Leaves
For 43d AD in Japan

The Staff Judge Advocate at Holloman Air Development Center, N. Mex., for the last 26 months, Lt. Col. Maurice F. Biddle, has left there for assignment in Japan. Col. Biddle has been assigned as Staff Judge Advocate for the 43d Air Division, a fighter outfit at Itazuke Air Force Base on the Island of Kyushu.

Mrs. Biddle, the former Dolly Bold of San Jose, Calif., and their two children, Tim, 15, and Susan Jeanne, 7, will accompany Col. Biddle to Japan.

WALTHAM 54, MASSACHUSETTS

Col. Brennan To 3d AF

The Commendation Ribbon was presented recently to Col. Mortimer C. Brennan, USAF, by General E. W. Rawlings USAF, Commander of Air Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. The Colonel has left for assignment as director of maintenance engineering, Headquarters, 3d Air Force, in Europe.

The citation accompanying the award praises his work as Chief, Plans Division, Quality Control, at Headquarters, AMC, since 26 November, 1952. He is credited with assuring the review, revision and development of directives necessary for the internal management of Quality Control.

$25 FOR SLOGAN

CWO John L. Monahan, USAF, 44th Field Maintenance Squadron, Lake Charles AFB, La., has won a $25 savings bond by naming next year's SAC flying safety campaign.

His slogan: Safe Aircraft Campaign for '56 was selected over more than 9,700 others which were submitted from throughout SAC to office of safety officials.

AMC Will Manage AF
Standardization Plan

The Air Force role in the standardization of service supply items will be managed by the Air Materiel Command.

The Cataloging and Standardization Division of the Directorate of Supply, under the command of Col. Asher B. Robbins, USAF, will handle the standardization management functions of the Air Force. The division will administer the program according to procedures developed by the Standardization Division in the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Supply and Logistics.

In implementing the program, the AMC division will work closely with Air Force Headquarters, the Air Research and Development Command and the other services. Data for standardization will be furnished by other Air Force commands. Among other virtues of the program, logistical operations and management are expected to be simplified.

AEDC Tech. Director
Retained As Civilian

Col. F. H. Richardson, USAF, Technical Director at the Arnold Engineering Development Center, Tullahoma, Tenn., retired to Civil Service status on 3 Oct., it is announced by Maj. Gen. S. R. Harris, USAF, Center Commander.

Since his recall to active duty with the Air Force in April 1951, Colonel Richardson has served as Chief, Projects Division; Chief of Staff; Deputy Commander for Technical Operations and in June of this year was appointed Technical Director at the Center. He will continue in this capacity as a civilian.

Board Will Consider 1958 AF Warrants, Some As 'Exceptionally Well Qualified'

The Air Force will convene a board of officers 17 Oct. to consider about 1958 warrant officers for temporary promotions to W-4, W-3 and W-2.

In a new departure in warrant officer promotions, the board will be authorized to make up to 50 per cent of the W-4 selections on an "exceptionally well qualified" basis, with the remainder to be advanced on a "qualified beyond doubt" straight seniority basis.

For W-3 boosts, the "exceptionally well qualified" limitation is 40 per cent.

The promotions to W-2 will be made on a "qualified beyond doubt" basis exclusively, with all W-1's with two years or more service in grade to be considered.

The Air Force said that about 205 W-3's are eligible, with the date of rank requirement set at 30 June 1952. The maximum number of promotions to W-4 will be 33.

There are 618 W-2's eligible, with date of rank of 30 June 1952 or earlier; an estimated 1137 W-1's meet the 17 Jan. 1954 date of rank requirement.

Promotions will be made during November, December, and January. They will be announced on orders in increments in the order of seniority in the lower grades.

USAF Headquarters meantime is working on a new regulation for the temporary promotion of warrant officers. Although details of the new policy have not been finalized, Air Force officials said it is anticipated that the new policy will require procedures which will closely parallel the procedures to be used for the October selections.

Fixed time-in-grade periods for eligibility zones will be established, so that each warrant officer will know in advance how long it will be before he is considered for temporary promotion.

This is the picture for the October selections:

To W-4

The quota for CWO, W-4 is 10, plus 1 additional for each Regular warrant officer whose name appears on the list of Regulars already selected for Regular promotion during the later part of the year, and who is also selected for temporary promotion by the October board. There are 23 Regulars in this category, so the maximum quota for temporary promotion to CWO, W-4 is 33. In other words, should any of these 23 Regulars be selected by the October board, they will not be charged against the basic quota of 10.

To W-3

The quota to CWO, W-3 is 100, plus one additional for each Regular who is in the same category described above. As in the case of promotion to CWO, W-4, these warrants will not be charged against the basic quota of 100, should any of them be selected by the October board.

To W-2

There is no quota to CWO, W-2, and all WO, W-1's with two years or more in grade will be considered. The board may select all of those whom they consider to be qualified beyond doubt for promotion to CWO, W-2.

In the past, the best qualified system has been used for the temporary promotion of warrant officers. For the October selections to CWO, W-3 and CWO, W-4, part of the quotas will be filled by the selection of warrants who, in the opinion of the board, are exceptionally well qualified and should be promoted in advance of those more senior. The remainder of the quota will be filled by the selection of warrants on a seniority basis, when the board evaluates as qualified beyond doubt for the higher grade. The number to be selected on the exceptionally well qualified basis will not exceed 50% of the quota, in the case of CWO, W-2's, and 40% in the case of CWO, W-3's. WO, W-1's, as pointed out above, will be selected on a straight qualified beyond doubt basis.

Lt. Col. Ritter Joins ARDC

Lt. Col. James H. Ritter, USAF, has been named Assistant Chief of the Systems Application Branch in the Human Factors Division at Air Research and Development Command Headquarters, Baltimore, Md.

Before assignment there, he attended the Air Command Staff School at Maxwell AFB, Ala. He holds a Ph.D. in Psychology from Ohio State University.

"Significant Leadership." Despite protestations that all has been sweetness and light in the recent budgetary soul-searching, one cannot escape the conclusion that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson put up a stiff front and refused to sacrifice National Defense in the interest of paving the way for a tax cut.

A few weeks ago, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey made it rather clear that he wanted the Department of Defense to find enough money so that the budget could be balanced and a tax cut made.

Mr. Wilson, in turn made a thorough search of current expenditures and requirements. He listened to the pleas of the civilian and military chiefs of the three military departments. As Secretary of Defense, he decided that no further cuts could be made without jeopardizing the National Defense program.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), chairman of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee, had expressed considerable concern over the reports that Defense needs were to be sacrificed to budgetary requirements. Secretary Wilson, however, told him flatly that, "No reductions or so-called 'cuts' are contemplated in Defense plans and activities that will develop spending levels below the $34 billion spending level outlined to the Congress." Furthermore, he added that "While our Defense programs are under continual review, there has been no basic re-appraisal of Defense needs that indicate the desirability of any substantial change in these programs at this time."

Following Mr. Wilson's straightforward public announcement that no further savings could be looked for at this time, Treasury Secretary Humphrey promptly issued a statement accepting the situation. Just as Mr. Wilson had said that no pressure had been put upon him to cut into Defense, so did Mr. Humphrey protest that there were "never in contemplation" any cuts that would have required changes in the Defense program. His statement went on in the vein of earlier promises of "more defense for fewer dollars." He said, "the hope has been and still is that savings can be made by continually exercising the greatest care and scrutinizing all expenditures and by increased efficiency in administration, while at the same time increasing effective military strength."

It takes no imagination to see that if Mr. Wilson had given way one little bit, the National Defense expenditures, and probably next year's budget, would have taken a pretty bad licking.

The reaction in the press and public has been gratifying. It should certainly be evident that the American people want a strong National Defense and that they are willing to pay for it. To this end they should be happy that they have a Secretary of Defense who is ready to stand up for the needs of his Department.

Flight Service is 11. The recent 11th anniversary of the little known "Flight Service," a component of the Military Air Transport Service, has been highlighted by the announcement that during the past year that Service set an all-time peacetime record by handling two-and-a-half million Armed Forces aircraft flight plans.

Flight Service was organized in the Autumn of 1943 as "Flight Control." Later it was redesignated as AAF Flight Service and subsequently taken into MATS when that all-service organization was formed. Today with less than 600 officers and airmen, assisted by Airways and Air Communications Service personnel and Air Weather Service forecasters, it provides the specialized operational services necessary for safe completion of point-to-point flights. The Nation's Loss. The career of the late Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler as a Reserve Officer will long stand as a model of the enormous contribution a citizen-soldier can make to the defense of his country.

His civilian position as first vice president and general manager of The New York Times was one of great responsibility and one which took a great deal of time and effort. Yet in spite of the great demands upon his physical resources, General Adler had a record of 37 continuous years of devoted service in the Reserves with active duty, including front line combat, in both World Wars I and II. Moreover, he gave unstintingly of his time aiding the Department in the strengthening of both the Regular establishment and the Reserves. He was an ardent advocate and worker in behalf of both Universal Military Training and the placing of the Reserves on a strong, long-range basis.

General Adler fought vigorously for the Reserve Forces Bill which was enacted at the last session of Congress, but in a form much weakened from that which he sought. A strengthening of that Act by the next session of Congress would constitute a really fitting memorial to this great citizen-soldier.

A Morale Builder

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Many thanks for the fine reporting job on Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot activities which appeared in the September 24th issue of the ARMY NAVY AIR FORCE JOURNAL.

Terse, comprehensive, and friendly—the article has elicited many favorable comments from both military and industrial sources.

The story was particularly well received by members of my staff and others who contribute so much to the overall conduct of the Depot. Publicity of this sort serves as an effective morale builder. More like it is indicated!

Uniforms and Promotion

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I write to you as one of the only effective means to voice complaints likely to be read or heard by levels capable of taking corrective action.

The first item concerns the recent order banning the OD 33 uniform for officers. In the first place it means in every case a considerably greater out of pocket expense to all officers than we have been led to believe would result from the long contemplated change to the new green uniform. As far as I know there never has been the slightest warning that a reasonable wear out period for the OD 33 uniform would be authorized. Except for officers the authorized wear out or change over period is ample (actually until Oct 61!).

Inasmuch as it has long been understood that the greens would replace the blouse and pinks most of officers I know have been trying to wear out the latter while at the same time keeping their OD 33 work or normal duty uniforms in good shape. This arbitrary elimination of the use of OD 33 for all except "field duty" finds many of us in the position of having to buy more pinks and blouses to carry us over until the new greens are available and authorized. Aside from the out of pocket expense, blouses and pinks are not available over here in the quantities necessary to meet this newly created requirement.

While it is understood that the standard for an officer's normal duty uniform should be high, there are many duties of officers for which something between combat field uniform and the blouse and pinks is a practical solution. The several sets practically new OD 33s I (and most other officers) now have more than adequately fill this need. Decisions like the one discussed do more to destroy morale than pay raises do to enhance.

The second item concerns promotions, no doubt the most popular subject of letters to the editor! It is understood that the next selections for Colonel will include all officers who were promoted to LtCol during WW II except the several hundred who were promoted in 1946 and then later reduced "without prejudice."

The Army has wonderful opportunity to keep faith with those regular officers reduced "without prejudice" in 46 by adding them to the zone now being considered or future zones in the same order that their 1946 D/Rs would indicate. This action is mandatory if the crime of the 1950 promotions based on regular army promotion list precedence is ever to be rectified.

By the temporary switch in 1950 to promotion list precedence some officers (I for one) lost 1600 files in relative rank among regular officers alone. I have no idea how many more files were lost as an incident to the 1950 concurrent promotions of non regulars based on the latter's temporary rank. I suspect the files were even greater than among regulars.

A Hospital For Retired

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I would like to suggest that the Army & Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., be renamed Armed Forces Hospital instead of Army & Navy Hospital and that all the doctors be supplied from all branches of the services.

It should be made a permanent medical center for all retired personnel of the armed forces and their dependents.

Veterinarians Add to Better Living and Service Efficiency, Writes Gen. Kester

BY BRIG. GEN. WAYNE O. KESTER,*
USAF (VC)

Office of The Surgeon General
Hdqs., U. S. Air Force

VETERINARY medicine has a surprisingly wide area of application in the military service. First in importance pertains to food supplies. Second is research and development. Third is preventive medicine and public health. The fourth pertains to animals, both public and privately owned. In the Air Force this application resolves to four related but distinct missions for our veterinary services.

Brig. Gen. Kester

We provide a complete inspection service for all types of food from source until consumed in the Air Force dining hall. Much of this work is performed by the Army veterinary corps and other Federal agencies. The Air Force duplicates the work of no other service. We merely bridge all gaps in the system not covered by other inspection agencies insofar as is necessary to assure both the wholesomeness and quality of foods.

Work Is Preventive

Our work is preventive in purpose rather than corrective—the prevention of contamination, of hidden deterioration, spoilage, of unsound practices, and preventing the procurement of sub-standard low quality foods. Emphasis is always on prevention because prevention represents money, food, and man hours—even lives—saved. There was a time in the history of our military service when poor food and food-borne diseases caused far more casualties than the enemy.

In addition we have a joint responsibility with the Army in providing a food procurement inspection service for the Department of Defense. The Quartermaster General of the Army is charged with the procurement of practically all subsistence used by the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force. During the past fiscal year he spent six hundred thirty million dollars for food. Over two-thirds of this was for foods of animal origin inspected prior to and at the time of purchase by the combined Army and Air Force veterinary services. This inspection network also includes Department of Agriculture inspectors where possible. Backed by a competent laboratory service for food analysis, it is a worldwide system. The Quartermaster General, or any purchasing office can contract for a quantity of food any place in the United States and many foreign countries with the assurance that it will be inspected within a few hours and that its source, quality, and purity are proper.

Last year over ten million pounds were rejected because they were found to be in an insanitary or unsound condition when offered for delivery, and over one hundred million pounds were rejected because they did not meet quality requirements. The Army Surgeon General estimates these rejections were worth twenty million dollars in savings to the Government. This in no way includes savings through health safeguards and good nutrition—far greater in importance, they cannot be measured in dollar value.

Research and Development

A second mission is that of research support. Veterinary officers are teamed with medical officers and many other research scientists working on problems in food, nutrition, inflight feeding, and food-borne diseases. Also veterinarians with advanced training in pathology, physiology, surgery, radiobiology, hematology, and related specialties are teamed with other scientists on all research projects involving the use of laboratory animals.

Chemists know their research can be no better than the purity of the chemicals they use. Similarly scientists know that research based on animal experimentation can be no more accurate or better than the purity, stability and condition of the animals used. Further, its results are meaningless unless accurately interpreted in animals and properly extrapolated to man. This is particularly significant today because the solution to many of the remaining problems in medicine and the answers to many new problems in the development and use of nuclear energy can only be solved by studying animal reactions. Progress demands even greater veterinary participation in all such research.

Preventive Medicine and Public Health

Another mission is that of assisting with preventive medicine activities, particularly in environmental health programs. Veterinarians in this field are teamed with sanitary and industrial hygiene engineers who are the specialists in the engineering aspects of public health. Working under the direction of flight surgeons and other preventive medicine officers they perform or supervise the thousands of continuing sanitary inspections so necessary in maintaining proper standards of environmental health and sanitation on and around our Air Force bases. Included are such things as eating establishments, housing and recreation quarters, swimming pools, water supplies, waste disposal, insect control, and other entities which may affect environment.

This requires a large portion of the base veterinary officer's time, especially overseas. There the health safeguards of the U. S. Public Health Service, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Pure Food and Drug Administration, and similar agencies do not exist and troops are not in their accustomed safe environment of high American standards of health and sanitation. Significantly, one-third of all veterinary personnel are on duty in overseas areas.

Animal Service

Our mission in connection with animals is far more important than generally supposed. In the military, as in the civilian community, it is one primarily of prevention—prevention and control of diseases among small and large animals in and around the military community of importance in man. Tuberculosis, leptospirosis, "Q" fever, brucellosis, and rabies are a few of the more than 80 diseases found in animals now known to affect man. Disease situations in foreign lands greatly magnify the problem because there we not only must consider community health but in some instances must also safeguard herds and flocks producing our own food supply.

Developments in biological warfare and the fact that most of the recognized possible biological warfare agents may affect animals or may be transmitted through food is particularly significant and has greatly complicated the veterinary picture, both in and out of the military.

The veterinary service has a grave responsibility—worldwide—in maintaining surveillance of food supply situations, food producing animals, and animal diseases with respect to their possible effect on Air Force personnel overseas as well as our livestock industry and the public health and welfare in general here at home. This responsibility has become more and more acute with the expansion of our highly mobile global Air Force.

Uppermost in the mind of every veterinary officer is the thought that an exotic disease devastating to our animal population could hitch-hike into this country on an airplane.

Approximately 300 officers and twice that many airmen are assigned to veterinary services. Airmen are trained through a special course by the School of Aviation Medicine.

Officers must complete the six years of college training required to obtain the degree, Doctor of Veterinary Medicine, prior to being commissioned. On reporting for duty all receive a short course of training at the School of Aviation Medicine.

All career officers, about one-third of the total 300, are further qualified by graduate or other advanced training. A high percentage have attended graduate schools of public health or comparable schools and possess the degree, Master of Public Health. Others have graduate degrees in radiobiology, pathology, bacteriology, nutrition, physiology, and other disciplines required for specialized assignments.

Operation

The veterinary service is not a separate service in itself. It is a closely integrated part of the over-all Air Force Medical Service under the direction of the Surgeon General. Veterinary officers function as assistants to responsible surgeons at all levels of command in administering the service.

It has been a moving force for better food and feeding in the Air Force—for example, the provision of fresh milk for overseas bases, the development of indigenous sources overseas and procurement of many locally produced fresh foods, the elimination of the old style insanitary undrawn chicken from the Air Force menu and its replacement with dressed ready-to-cook poultry, improved methods of storing and handling foods, and the maintenance of high quality food standards.

It has been a contributing force also to the phenomenally low non-effectiveness rate in the Air Force, particularly through the prevention of diseases borne of food and poor sanitation. It is but one of the Medical Service's arms which all add up to better living for the airman and a more efficient Air Force.

Veterinarians Get Word On Atomic Research

Opportunities and responsibilities for veterinarians in the atomic age was the theme of a lecture given by Dr. Paul Pearson, chief of the biology division of the Atomic Energy Commission, to the fifth class of Army-Air Force veterinary officers enrolled for the two-week course in veterinary radiological health late last month, at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., Institute of Nuclear Studies.

The course is conducted by the institute in cooperation with the University of Tennessee-Atomic Energy Commission Agricultural Research program to provide indoctrination in health physics. It is specifically intended to instruct Armed Forces veterinary officers in the evaluation of problems of radiation phenomena particularly in relation to the radio contamination of food producing animals and food products.

Navy and Air Officers Write Submarine Book

("HELLCATS OF THE SEA," by VAdm. Charles A. Lockwood, USN-Ret., and Col. Hans Christian Adamson, USAF-Ret. 332 pp., New York; Greenberg, Publisher. $5.00.)

THIS latest in the Navy's growing bookshelf of submarine stories is a detailed and skillfully written account of the sending of nine U.S. submarines into the Sea of Japan on a heroic mission in the closing days of WWII.

As related by Admiral Lockwood, WWII Commander-Submarines, Pacific, and Colonel Adamson, former Chief of the USAF Personnel Narrative Office and the author and co-author of numerous books, "Hellcats of the Sea" is a fast-paced, exciting narrative which makes the reader virtually reel under the impact of the depth charges which greet the submarines Tunny, Sea Dog, Crevalle, Skate, Tinosa, Flying Fish and Bowfin during "Operation Barney." The ninth submarine, USS Bonefish, did not return.

From first-hand observation, official records (both U.S. and Japanese), and from later conversations with the sub skippers, Admiral Lockwood has culled facts, statistics and personal reactions and emotions which make the book read almost like fiction.

The book will be of special interest to the nearly 800 officers and men who participated in the operation, the numerous others who were intimately connected with the planning and technical details, and all members of the submarine service.

But it provides equally interesting reading for Navy men in general and for those in other branches of the Service who are interested in knowing how wars are fought under the sea.

Hood Training Chief

Col. Linwood Griffin, Jr., USA, has been assigned as Post Director of Training at Ft. Hood, Tex.

Colonel Griffin previously was Chief of the Special Weapons Section in the United States Army Europe G3 (Operations) office. He held that post for almost two years, after being the G3 Officer with Army forces in Trieste.

USMC Readopts Pistol Badge And Expert Bar

The Marine Corps had readopted the expert and sharpshooter pistol qualification badges and the expert requalification bar which were worn before WWII.

Appropriate badges will be awarded to officers and men who qualify for the first time in either the expert, sharpshooter, or marksman class with the .45 or .38 over the prescribed course. Qualifications made before 1955 will not be considered in awarding the badges.

Individuals may continue to wear the badge or the bar until they fail to qualify or they requalify in a different category. Complete details are contained in Marine Corps Memo 70-55.

MEMO For Journal Readers

THE AIR FORCE IS TAKING NOTE of the Army's stepped-up efforts to boost its organic aviation. But so far, there has been little outcry from top Air Force officials. There's reason to believe that the Air Force may now be willing for the Army to get into tactical support activities on a limited basis, since most Tactical Air Command planes are too speedy to accomplish all missions necessary to back up ground forces. DON'T BE SURPRISED if General Taylor and General Twining agree to a more liberalized (from the Army viewpoint) "Memorandum of Understanding" than was achieved by Generals Collins and Vandenberg in 1952.

A 40,000-MAN DEFICIT confronts the Air Force. Congress O.K.'d an end strength of 975,000 for the current fiscal year, compared with the present 958,300. But unless heavy manpower losses are checked, authoritative estimates now foresee an end strength of about 934,000. THIS PERSONNEL DROP will occur as the Air Force adds 7 wings to its present 124-wing structure. Congress could get an idea next year that if the Air Force can operate just as efficiently with 40,000 less men—which it can't—then it should be possible to cut manpower requests in the other Services. Using the rule of thumb $5,000 per man per year figure, the Air Force may save $200 million as a result of the upcoming personnel shortage.

NAVY PARTICIPATION IN MATS reportedly is declining. An indication that this trend will continue is the fact that the Vice Commander, heretofore a Navy billet, now is Maj. Gen. Ernest Moore, USAF, who has "additional duty" as MATS Chief of Staff. He replaced RAdm. C. Stanhope Ring, USN-Ret. Capt. H. P. Badger, USN, who is Deputy Chief of Staff, Plans, now is the ranking Navy officer at MATS Headquarters, Andrews AFB, D. C.

THE INTENSIFIED INTEREST in health problems of senior Service officers, which has followed the President's heart attack, is evidenced in a new Navy order. Asst. Sec'y Pratt has ordered that "scrupulous care" be given to annual physical examinations. He directed that special tests, some having to do with discovery of heart ailments, be given to all Navy admirals and Marine Corps general officers.

SHOWING HE MEANT BUSINESS, SecDef Wilson gave a special ad hoc group, headed by Asst. SecDef Burgess, less than 1 month to study and make recommendations to him. The problem: "the lack of consistency in the manner in which the military departments carry out the purpose and intent of DoD directives." Mr. Wilson and Deputy Secretary Robertson, with force level problems reduced, now are devoting much of their time to streamlining administration of the Armed Forces. They are being encouraged in this task, of course, by Hoover Commission charges of inefficiency and waste.

GREENLAND TELEVISION will be increased from 1 to 3 stations by Christmas. The Air Force intends to open T.V. outlets at Sondrestrom and Narsarsuaq Air Bases, in addition to the station now in operation at Thule AB. By New Year's, the AF will have 10 T.V. stations around the world, including the pioneer facility at Loring AFB, Me., which opened in December 1953. The other Services are expected to get in on the T.V. action.

ALL THE NAVY NEEDS to give it a mobile three-dimensional stature is a moving land base. Sec'y Thomas, who has stressed the carrier Forrestal's role as a "moving airbase," this week described the submarine as a "moving seabase."

THE STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND will announce shortly the shift of a refueling unit to Kindley AFB, Bermuda, presently a MATS facility. It's expected that air transport and Air Weather Service activities will continue even after the SAC tankers arrive—probably during the early part of 1956. THE MAIN RUNWAY at Kindley is being lengthened to nearly 10,000 feet, which is required for jets.

A FIGHT WITH CONGRESS probably has been averted as a result of the Defense Dept. decision to continue Marine Corps strength at a level of about 205,000. The President's budget provided for an end strength of 193,000, but Congress O.K.'d an extra $46 million to boost the Leatherneck force to 215,000. DOD NOW EXPECTS to spend about $35 million of that money. SecDef Wilson's remark at a news conference last week: "I'm all for the Marines; they are a great outfit" recalled a similar statement he made at Quantico, Va., in July when he said a decision had not yet been made on whether strength would be dropped to the 193,000 level. Explaining that the Pentagon is studying the matter of Marine Corps manpower levels, Mr. Wilson said: "The Marines have a specialized duty and mission and if you expand it too much, you are just going to have another Army, another ground force."

WITH NEW SECRETARIES of the Army and Air Force handling the problem, SecDef Wilson is expected to reach accord shortly on the long-pending proposal to transfer Aviation Engineer function and units from the Army to the Air Force. The Special Category Army With Air Force (SCARWAF) personnel have been the cause of much argument among the two Services. Now it looks as if Mr. Wilson, determined to get this one off his list, will call upon Army Sec'y Brucker and AF Sec'y Quarles to settle the differences.

A BRIGHTER GLOW may be in store for the Air Force. Its safety experts are studying possibility of using a highly reflective colorless spray on the uniform cap and hat. It would make airmen more visible at night to on-coming drivers. A decision is expected early next year. THE OTHER SERVICES have been making similar tests—all part of a drive to cut down the heavy losses in men and money from traffic accidents.

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING lost a second bold advocate in the death this week of Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, USAR. With the late Lt. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, who was integrated into the Regular Army after long National Guard service, General Adler fought tirelessly for UMT. Both were close to President Eisenhower, who repeatedly sought their counsel, as had former President Truman, in matters pertaining to the Reserve Forces.

THE ARMY AND AF WERE IN TROUBLE this week over publication of an "Official Table of Distances" for foreign travel. Used by finance officers for computing travel pay and transportation allowances, such a document seemingly would be innocuous. But Defense Dept. security officials were upset when news stories called to their attention the fact that the table contained a compilation of overseas bases, including a handy index. THE SERVICES' COMPLAINT over loss of the "restricted" classification category could be pertinent in this case. On an individual basis, the Russians certainly know the identity of the U.S., British, French and Japanese bases mentioned in the publication, but the compilation, though likely not qualifying for a "confidential" or "secret" tag, could be helpful to the Communists.

want more RETIREMENT INCOME?

At the end of your active career you naturally want to be financially prepared. More and more people are finding that they can more adequately prepare for their retirement by investing for extra income in Mutual Fund shares.

Mutual Funds are even more attractive now as the new tax law on dividends applies to most of them. Besides an exemption of the first $50 of dividend income (or $100 for husband and wife under certain conditions) a direct credit against tax of 4% of any balance is provided.

Brown, Madeira & Co. is comprised of people thoroughly familiar with the need of planning for adequate retirement income. With our help, thousands of civilians and service personnel—people like yourself—have begun providing for a sounder financial future through the purchase of Mutual Fund shares.

Learn how a Mutual Fund purchase plan can help you supplement your fixed-dollar retirement income. Just mail a postcard with your name and address for our booklet, "The Modern Way to Invest." There is no obligation.

QUALITY CONTROL FOR ROCKET ENGINE RELIABILITY

Today, as never before, rocket power is a dominant military requirement. Aerojet-General propulsion devices are used from Pole to Equator. They must operate with the flick of a switch at any altitude, any attitude, over extreme temperature ranges.

But the price of optimum reliability is maximum vigilance. At Aerojet, this means the uncompromising control of every characteristic of every engine, every component in research, development and production.

There are no short cuts to certainty. Aerojet uses all the techniques of modern quality programs — new-design control, acceptance sampling plans, statistical analysis, quality auditing. In actual test-firings of complete rocket systems, Aerojet has spent over six million man-hours since 1942.

The results are unique in the rocket propulsion field: Aerojet products in field use have an overall measured reliability of 99.6%.

FT. SILL RATED SUPERIOR

Ft. Sill, Okla., rated a "Superior," highest possible rating, in the recent Annual Fourth Army Inspector General Inspection.

"It is one of the few times in my service that I have seen a large installation get a superior report,"
Maj. Gen. Edward T. Williams,
Commanding General, Artillery and Guided Missile Center, said in his Command and Staff conference.
"I think everybody ought to be congratulated."

The Artillery and Guided Missile Center's Inspector General is
Col. L. M. Howell.

Col. Morris Schonholz, Fourth
Army Inspector General, particularly mentioned police and appearance of the post in his report to the post commander.

Fourth Armored G-2

Lt. Col. Lester M. Rice, USAR, has been named Chief of Staff G-2 of the Fourth Armored Division, Ft. Hood, Tex.
He succeeds Col. Marion G. Williams,
USA, now commander of Division Trains.
The former Division Trains commander,
Col. William S. McElhenny, USA, has left for Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and a staff assignment at the Command and General Staff School.

Col. Bridgers Is G-4

Col. George A. Bridgers, USA, has been named Second Army G-4 by Lt. Gen.
Floyd L. Parks, USA, at Ft. Meade, Md.
He had previously served as Second
Army Executive Officer, G-4.

Prior to coming to Meade, he served in G-4, Southern Area Command, United States Army, Europe.

SERVICE FAMILY NOTES

THE Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. Arleigh A. Burke will entertain in lieu of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, when Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, England's First Sea Lord, and Lady Mountbatten come to Washington the end of the month on the invitation of the President, whose overnight guests they were to have been.

They will go immediately on arrival from Canada to "the Admiral's House" atop Observatory Circle, where they will be entertained at an official dinner party during their stay.

Kruegers Return To Farm—

After spending the summer at their cottage at Buzzards Bay, Cape Cod, Col. (USA-Ret.) and Mrs. R. H. Krueger are now at Dimde Farm, Lingelston Rd., Harrisburg, Pa.

Chemical Corps Wives Club—

The Chemical Corps Wives Club, with Mrs. William Foley presiding, will hold its first regular luncheon meeting, on Tuesday, 11 Oct., at 12 noon, at the Evans Coffee Shop, 4770 Lee Highway, Arlington, Va. Hostesses will be Mrs. Benjamin R. Bierer and Mrs. Keith E. Nelson. Plans are being made for an active social year.

Army SG Women's Club Luncheon—

The Women's Club of the Office of the Army Surgeon General will hold its second luncheon of the Fall season, at the Officers' Club of the Walter Reed Army Medical Center, on Thursday, 13 Oct., at 12 noon. A sherry hour will precede the luncheon. In charge of arrangements will be a group of members from the Washington-Walter Reed Unit, with Mrs. Henry W. Daine as chairman and Mrs. Charles S. Gersoni as co-chairman. A Washington hat shop will present a showing of new Fall hats, with members modeling.

Mrs. Silas B. Hays, honorary president of the Club, and wife of the Surgeon General of the Army, will have as her guest, Mrs. Leonard D. Heaton, wife of the Commanding General of the Army Medical Center.

Belvoir OWC Style Show—

Members and guests of the Officers' Wives Club will view some "wardrobe magic" at their next get-together on Tuesday, 11 Oct., at Woodlawn, Ft. Belvoir. An Arlington shop will present a collection of daytime and evening clothes with emphasis on the newest Fall fashion story. Following the 1:30 p.m. showing, tea will be served.

Mrs. Charles L. Kirkpatrick is chairman for the event, with Mrs. Jacques L.

Sherman, jr., in charge of program. Mrs. Phillip Buckler, ED. 9-5950, will take reservations, assisted by Mesdames Frank Van Wagoner, Ernest Fedor, Edward J. O'Shaughnessy, and Norman Gorin.

Wives of the Post Hospital officers will serve as hostesses. Mrs. Urhe R. Merikangas is planning the menu and Mrs. William Moore the decorations with an autumn theme.

Marine Officers' Wives Club—

Unusual flower arrangements highlighted the decorations at the first Fall luncheon of the Marine Officers' Wives' Club, 21 Sept., at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Odd and interesting containers ranged from a large brass firewood basket, which centered the head table, to a copper chafing dish, from a long-necked Persian pitcher to a squat beer mug. The vases were a mixture of antique and modern designs and were loaned by members who had collected them in many different parts of the world.

Many of the flower combinations featured Marine Corps colors of scarlet and gold . . . bronzy-red sumac and gilded magnolia leaves, graceful golden wheat stalks sent especially for this luncheon from a ranch in Montana, gilded seed pods, red and yellow mums and dwarf zinnias. The color scheme was carried out even to the luncheon cloths which were sheets tinted a soft shade of yellow and napkins of the same shade.

Following the social hour, the strains of "mess call" announced luncheon as a colorful Marine fife and drum team circled the big hall.

Mrs. Francis M. McAllister, president of the Club, welcomed the members and introduced the guests of honor, Mrs. Christian F. Schilt, wife of Lt. General Schilt, Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps for Air, and Mrs. Thomas A. Wornham, last year's Club president. Maj. General Wornham is Commanding General of the 3d Marine Division in the Far East.

Mrs. McAllister also introduced Mrs. Randolph McCall Pate, wife of the Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, who brought the Club a message from Mrs. Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr., honorary president, and wife of the Commandant of the Marine Corps.

Hostesses for the luncheon were wives of officers in the G-1 (Personnel) Section of Marine Corps Headquarters. Headed by Mrs. James P. Berkeley, the hostesses included Mesdames Jonas M. Platt, Richard G. Weede and George Ryfel.

The October luncheon will feature Fall fashions.

Navy Doctors' Wives Club—

The Navy Doctors' Wives Club of the Washington area will meet at noon, on Thursday, 13 Oct., at the Commissioned Officers' Mess of the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Charles L. Denton at EMerson 2-1654.

Army Chaplains' Wives—

Mrs. F. A. Tobey, wife of the Deputy Chief of Army Chaplains, and Mrs. C. E. Brown, wife of the Executive Officer, entertained the Army Chaplains' Wives at a coffee on 30 Sept., at Mrs. Tobey's home, 4520—32nd Road North, Arlington, Va. Twenty-five wives were present. Especially honored were six new members, who included Mesdames S. R. Crumpton, T. E. Clarkston, A. M. Shapiro, K. L. Sowers, J. B. Blunk, and R. C. Adams.

Mrs. Taylor Is Honor Guest—

The Women's Club of the National War College, Ft. McNair, held its monthly luncheon meeting 5 Oct., with Mrs. Maxwell D. Taylor, wife of the Army Chief of Staff, as guest of honor. Hostesses were Mrs. K. L. Reaves and Mrs. E. G. Hardaway.

Col. A. K. Sibley of the National War College faculty, spoke to the group on Atomic Energy. He was introduced by Mrs. William A. Kuhn, Chairman for the Army Group of the Club's Executive Committee, who also presided over the meeting.

The Decorating Committee, headed by Mrs. F. E. Janey, used yellow as their predominant color in their floral decorations for the luncheon.

Plans are being made by the Women's Club for members to visit the United Nations in New York on 19 Oct.

Army Daughters Plan Coffee—

The Society of the Daughters of the U. S. Army, Northern Virginia Chapter, will hold a Coffee 7 Nov. Mrs. Howard E. Reed at Je. 2-8672 will welcome calls from prospective members.

JAGC Ladies' October Luncheon—

On 13 Oct., the Ladies of the Judge Advocate General's Corps of the Army will hold the first of a series of luncheons at the Ft. McNair Officers' Club. The guests of honor will be Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, wife of The Secretary of the Army, Mrs. Charles C. Finucane, wife of The Undersecretary of the Army, Mrs. Hugh M. Milton, jr., wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Chester R. Davis, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Mrs. Eugene M. Caffey, wife of The Judge Advocate General of the Army, will receive with Mrs. Claude B. Mickelwait, wife of The Assistant Judge Advocate General, Mrs. George W. Hickman, jr., wife of the Assistant Judge Advocate General for Civil Law, and Mrs. Stanley W. Jones, wife of the Assistant Judge Advocate General for Military Justice.

Mr. David H. Popper, Director, Office of United Nations Political and Security Affairs, Bureau of International Organization Affairs, Department of State, will speak on the "Highlights of the United Nations."

Mrs. Harold D. Shrader, chairman of the committee in charge of the luncheon, will be assisted by the following committee members: Mesdames Hickman, arrangements; William R. Ward, program; Charles L. Rose, transportation; Robert F. Grabb, decorations; Emanuel P. Snyder, publicity; and Charles L. Ricks, invitations.

AGC Ladies' Activities—

The Adjutant General's Corps Ladies Luncheon Group will hold its first luncheon of the season on Wednesday, 12 Oct., at 12:30 p.m., at the Ft. McNair Officers' Club. Mrs. John A. Klein, wife of The Adjutant General of the Army, will preside and a brief welcoming address will be delivered by Maj. Gen. Klein.

The principal speaker of the afternoon will be Ambassador Jose Ricardo Chiriboga of Ecuador, who has chosen as his subject, Columbus Day and the Americas.

Among the distinguished guests will be Mrs. Harold H. Burton, wife of Asso-

U. of Idaho ROTC Expands

■ MOSCOW, IDAHO. The Army ROTC at the University of Idaho, under the direction of Lt. Col. James A. Moore, PMST, is anticipating one of its most successful years of operation. This year's freshman enrollment has reached a record high of 326 students. Increasing the size of the Cadet Corps to 664 students. To assist in carrying out the training program, the unit has received some highly experienced staff replacements. Maj. Walter N. Moore, Jr., Artillery; M/Sgt. Benjamin Mares; and SFC Richard M. Poore have recently arrived from service with the United States Army Forces in Europe. Major Moore is the unit Executive Officer and Coordinator of Training, while Sergeants Mares and Poore are members of the instruction group and assistant class advisors to the basic students.

The year finds the unit short two officers caused by the transfer of former members of the staff, Capt. Harris Cassell, serving with the Army in the Far East, and Capt. Allan D. Foster, assigned to the Second Infantry Division at Ft. Lewis, Washington. To replace Captain Foster, University officials have accepted Department of the Army nomination of 1st Lieutenant Lloyd M. Huffman. Lieutenant Huffman will join the ROTC staff in mid-November.

Miss Dent Is Sponsor

■ MOBILE, ALA.—Lt. Col. Franklin R. Patterson, PMST of the Army Transportation Corps ROTC unit at Spring Hill College, announces the election of eight new sponsors for the battalion of cadets. Those selected were voted in by the Military Science students and came from a list of 39 co-eds who offered their names for consideration. The new sponsors will join eight other young ladies who were selected last year. One of the sponsors, Miss Lynn Dent, is the daughter of Maj. Gen. Fred R. Dent, USAF, Commanding MOAMA, Brookley AFB, Mobile, Ala. Others selected were: Joyce Simpson, Billie Jo Mullins, Mary Jo Butler, Irene Dobbin, Lynn Foote, Peg Johnson, and Helen Muscat.

Thanksgiving Service At AWC

■ CARLISLE BARRACKS, PA. A thanksgiving service for the new remodeling of the Chapel at the Army War College was conducted 25 Sept. with Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Ivan C. Whipple, officiating.

The theme "A Day of Rejoicing" included the dedication of the congregation to the Christian way of life and the appointment of seven deacons. The deacons dedicated were: Col. J. M. Palmer, Lt. Col. Furman W. Marshall, Lt. Col. Edward McMaken, Maj. H. D. Worley, Capt. Jack B. Chestnutwood, M/Sgt. Hiram K. Duncan and M/Sgt. Malcolm F. Rintoul.

Following the scripture lesson which was read by Maj. Gen. C. D. Eddleman, USA, Commandant of the Army War College, 19 acolytes were consecrated. The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul G. Hollister, presented "Bless This House" during the offertory. Chancel flowers were arranged by Mrs. P. D. Clainos and Mrs. George Kleitz.

This is the first time since the erection of the Chapel in 1941 that alterations have been made. The interior was carpeted throughout in gold and new gold drapes hung at each window. Colonial pews were installed of white with walnut benches. The altar was reconstructed to include choir stalls, acolyte benches, two clergy stalls and a chancel rail of Colonial white and walnut to match the pews.

The altar was adorned with rose bronze candlesticks flanked by bronze floor vases. Directly above the altar hangs a large walnut cross which was designed by Chaplain Whipple. A canopy of scarlet velour with a gold fringe covers the gold dorsal curtain behind the altar.

The walls of the chapel were repainted white and new hymnal boards were installed on either side of the pulpit. The organ, which was formerly located in the choir loft, has been placed to the right of the lectern.

A blessed sacrament oratory is being installed in one of the rear rooms of the Chapel. It is a small chapel where the Blessed Sacrament is reserved for emergency sick calls when the last rites are to be administered. It also will afford an opportunity for private devotions and personal visits to the Blessed Sacrament.

3 Retired Generals

On War College Panel

"Leadership" was the subject of a recent panel discussion at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., in which three retired Army generals participated.

Addressing the student officers on the effect of future warfare on principles and techniques of leadership were Generals John E. Hull, Charles L. Bolté and Lucian K. Truscott, jr. Following the presentation of the panel, an after-lecture conference was held in which students openly discussed the various phases of leadership with the members of the panel.

General Hull served as Commander-in-Chief of the Far East Command and of the United Nations Command from 1953 until the time of his retirement from the Army this year. General Bolté was also recently retired from the Army after serving as Army Vice Chief of Staff. General Truscott was Chairman of the Army Advisory Panel for Amphibious Operations in the Office of the Chief of Army Field Forces at the time of his retirement in 1949. During WWII he commanded the Third Army in Germany.

BRIG. GEN. PAUL M. SELEEN, retiring Ordnance Tank Automotive Command chief, (left), welcomes his successor, Brig. Gen. Nelson M. Lynde, jr., at a Detroit Yacht Club farewell dinner. Major Gen. L. E. Simon, (center), presented the retiring Detroit General with a certificate of achievement on behalf of the Chief of Army Ordnance.

Maxwell C.O. Retires

Col. James G. Pratt, USAF, Commander at Maxwell AFB, Ala., since March 1953, will retire 31 Oct., after more than 30 years service.

Col. Mills S. Savage, USAF, present executive officer at Maxwell will become commander 1 Nov.

These changes announced by Maj. Gen. Dean C. Strothers, USAF, acting Commander of the Air University.

Colonel Pratt, who has made a wide circle of friends in Montgomery, announced that he and Mrs. Pratt would make their home in that city after his retirement. He has been very active in working toward better community relations.

Navy Doctor Retires, Held On Active Duty

Capt. Theodore H. Armstrong, MC, USN, has been retired and continued on active duty. He is 62.

Designated a Naval flight surgeon in 1943, Captain Armstrong has served with Navy and Marine Aviation units since completion of his postgraduate instruction in Aviation Medicine. He served with the U.S. Army Air Service (Radio Division) during WW I.

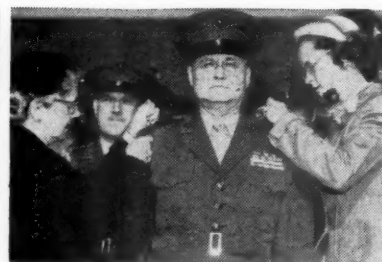

At the time of his retirement, Captain Armstrong was serving as the Medical Officer, U.S. Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J. He will continue in that assignment in his retired status.

GEN. EICHELBERGER'S PAPERS TO DUKE

Duke University Library at Durham, N. C., is receiving the official and personal papers of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, USA-Ret., commander of the "Amphibious Eighth" Army.

This gift of six trunk loads contains an extensive collection of reports from skirmishes on the Mexican border in 1911 to the years 1946-48, when the general commanded the Allied and U. S. ground forces during the Japanese Occupation.

As commander of the I Corps, General Eichelberger led attacks on Buna, Sananda, Papua and Biak Island, among others, in the 1942-44 struggle for re-possession of New Guinea. Named commander of the Eighth Army in 1944, he headed invading forces in Dutch New Guinea and the Philippines.

MRS. H. D. LINSCHOTT and daughter Helen pin the third star on the shoulder strap of Lt. Gen. H. D. Linscott, USMC, who was honored with a formal retirement ceremony at Treasure Island, Calif., after 38 years' service. General and Mrs. Linscott will make their home in Arlington, Va., following an extended tour through the South.

They Keep Busy

ADMIRAL ROBERT B. CARNEY, who retired on 17 August as Chief of Naval Operations, will become a consultant to the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, a large supplier of military equipment.

Westinghouse's Chairman and President, Gwilym A. Price, said that Admiral Carney will, among other civilian duties he plans to undertake, consult with Westinghouse management on the development of equipment for the military services.

It was also announced that Admiral Carney has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Bath Iron Works Corp., Me. He is also a member of the Board of the Fairchild Engine and Aircraft Corp.

VADM. CHARLES B. MOMSEN, USN-Ret., inventor of the famed submarine escape device—the Momsen Lung—has joined the General Dynamics Corp. as a consultant. He retired 1 Sept. after more than 36 years' service, 34 of them in activities related to submarines. A USNA '20 graduate, he has a son, Cdr. Charles B. Momsen, jr., USN, and a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Momsen Hailey, wife of Cdr. Robert H. Hailey, USN.

COL. LEO J. KELLY, USA-Ret., has been elected Assistant Vice President of the American National Bank and Trust Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich. He and Mrs. Kelly, with their youngest son, Dennis, live at 1003 Cambridge Drive, Kalamazoo.

COL. and MRS. EDWARD M. FICKETT, USA-Ret., Assistant General Manager of the Aircraft Maintenance Division, Aeronca Manufacturing Corp., now are residing at 112 No. Girard Avenue, Dothan, Ala. His corporation maintains aircraft at the Army's Aviation Center, Camp Rucker, Ala.

BRIG. GEN. URBAN NIBLO, USA-Ret., who ended more than 38 years active service on 30 Sept. as Deputy Commandant, Education, of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Ft. McNair, Washington, D. C., plans to enter private industry following a short vacation. He is a widely known Ordnance officer.

COL. WILLIAM MENOHER, USA-Ret., has accepted a position with the Corvey Engineering Company of Alexandria, Va. He resides at 1525 44th Street, N.W., Washington 7, D. C.

ADMIRAL ARTHUR C. DAVIS, USN, who retired from the Navy on 30 Sept., has been elected executive vice president of M. ten Bosch, Inc., it was announced by Maurits ten Bosch, president. The company, with plants located at Pleasantville, New York, designs and manufactures navigational instruments as well as bomb sights and other defense materials.

INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

Transportation Assoc. Will Hear Of Equipment And Trends In All Services

Discussion of new military equipment and current trends in defense transportation will be featured at the annual convention of the National Defense Transportation Association in Boston 12-15 Oct.

More than 1000 transportation leaders from all sections of the country are expected to attend the forum for first-hand reports on defense activities from Earl B. Smith, Director of Transportation and Communications in the Department of Defense, and General Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff. Both will speak 13 Oct.

Navy Under Secretary Thomas S. Gates will be guest speaker at the annual banquet 14 Oct. He will present the association's National Transportation Award to Charles H. Weaver, vice president for atomic power activities of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. Mr. Weaver will be honored for his work in the development and construction of the nuclear power plant which propels the submarine U.S.S. Nautilus.

Representatives of the services are scheduled to make speeches at morning sessions, and each afternoon of the three-day meeting has been set aside for presentations by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The Air Force panel, under the direction of Maj. Gen. John P. Doyle, USAF, Director of Transportation, Department of the Air Force, on 12 Oct. will discuss air transport with emphasis on its history, management and effect on national strategy in war and peace.

On 13 Oct., Col. William B. Bunker, Commandant of the Transportation School at Ft. Eustis, Va., will serve as moderator of a panel which will outline "The Transportation Corps' Concept of War in the Future."

On the following day, naval experts will discuss "Development of Navy Cargo Handling." The program is being prepared under the direction of RADM. Ralph J. Arnold, Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. He will be aided by VADM. Murrey L. Royer, Chief of Naval Material.

Award New Contract For Lockheed C-130As

Award of the fourth and largest contract for manufacture of Air Force C-130A Hercules turbo-prop transports at the Georgia Division plant of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, Marietta, was announced this week.

The Air Material Command, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, said "an additional number of C-130A aircraft" will be manufactured under the new contract.

In announcing the third C-130A contract a year ago, the Air Force valued it at approximately $100,000,000. Thus, the new order will be considerably in excess of this amount.

The Air Material Command stated that "an initial authorization of $25 million" has been made for the additional airplanes. This initial sum, however, represents only a fraction of the overall value of the contract which probably will be negotiated on a "fixed price incentive basis."

Vertiplane May Be New Piasecki Name

Piasecki Helicopter Corporation Directors have recommended to the shareholders that the name of the company be changed to Vertiplane Corporation and that the board be increased from 11 to 13 members.

"The new name, Vertiplane Corporation, will more fully describe our current activities and the scope of future operations," explained Don R. Berlin, president. "In addition, the change will remove the confusion that now exists due to the presence of two firms with similar names."

The Board of Directors recommended that the shareholders elect Thomas K. Finletter and John F. Floberg to the board.

Safety Honor Award Presented to IMATA

The National Safety Council has conferred its highest award, The Award of Honor, upon Independent Military Air Transport Association, whose member airlines have a record of 26 consecutive months of passenger-carrying flight operations without a fatality.

In a brief ceremony at IMATA's Washington offices the Council's President Ned H. Dearborn, commending the organization on the "unprecedented performance" of its members, presented a plaque bearing the NSC Award of Honor seal and citation to Ramsay D. Potts, jr., the association's president.

Fairchild Organizes Scientific Advisory Bd.

Edwin A. Speakman, vice president of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation, has announced the formation of a Scientific Advisory Board for the Fairchild Guided Missiles Division. The board is composed of outstanding scientists for the purpose of advising on the planning of research programs and the development of new techniques in the field of guided missiles, electronics and atomic energy.

Following are members of the board: Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of the College of Engineering, Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Robert F. Rinehart, professor of mathematics, Pace Institute of Technology.

Dr. Walter E. Albertson, professor of physics, Naval War College.

Dr. Richard M. Emberson, assistant to the president, Associated Universities, Inc.

Chicago QM Purchasing Center New Depot Name

The Chicago Quartermaster Depot has been redesignated by the Army as the Chicago Quartermaster Purchasing Center.

Decision to change the name of the depot, which is commanded by Col. Jack E. Finks, was made after the activity's storage mission was discontinued last summer. As a result, few actual depot-type operations aside from the large central purchasing office remain at the center. The center has concentrated recently on the procurement of items of general supplies and individual equipment for the Armed Forces.

Army General Order 54, in which the depot's name was changed, also tabbed the center as a Class III installation. This category is defined as an Army installation under the command of an Army staff agency (in this case the Quartermaster General) at which are located a number of activities of logistical nature.

Finance Corp. Dividend

Federal Services Finance Corporation reports that the regular dividend of 22½¢ on the common and $1.25 on the preferred was declared for the quarter ending 30 Sept. by the directors of the Company at the regular meeting of the Board, held 27 Sept.

Earnings of the corporation and subsidiaries after taxes for the eight months ending 31 Aug. 1955, were $196,241 as compared to $145,311 for the same period in 1954.

Limitation On Advance Payments Stirs Concern In Congress, GAO, And Industry

Repercussions from the directive to limit advances to military contractors to 105 percent of costs issued by Deputy-Sec'y Reuben B. Robertson, jr., have appeared in industry, in the General Accounting Office and in Congress.

Mr. Robertson, (THE JOURNAL 24 Sept.), supported the Navy viewpoint and Mr. Wilson's policy of requiring contractors "to operate partly on their own money."

Industry observers pointed out that while the Pentagon could enforce this new fiscal policy in new contracts, procurement officers did not have unilateral power to incorporate the new contract clause in present contracts. Their trade associations have protested this "drastic action" and pointed out that the Air Force asked that the limit be raised to 108 or 110 percent. The National Security Industrial Association has asked Asst. Sec'y Wilfred J. McNeil for help to amend the directive. They deplore the "hasty action" taken.

The General Accounting Office takes an opposite attitude. Frankly admitting their surprise at reports of 600 million in overpayments to large contractors, they now believe such overpayments may approach one billion. They state that one West Coast aircraft firm was found to have 52 million in the bank drawing interest and awaiting instructions for refunding to the government. A more alert Eastern aircraft firm possessed 30 million in short term bonds most of which was earmarked, "Reserve for refunds on defense contracts."

GAO officials state that overpayments are federal funds and that all interest on such funds must also be returned. On page 25 of the 1953 GAO report, the difficulties of an Ordnance contractor attempting to refund 22 million on his price-redetermination contract was outlined. Secretary Wilson issued a directive last Spring establishing for the first time procedures for accepting refunds from contractors.

At least one congressional committee is known to have been surveying the situation to determine if any favoritism has been shown.

Both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Robertson are known to believe that military contractors should accept some financial responsibility in performing their contracts as a better and more economical product would result. They also believe it would cause faster settlement of final contract prices which now often occur one or two years after completion of the contract. Pentagon fiscal officials say these large overpayments are a result of "unrealistic" target prices in incentive type contracts and high unit prices in price-redetermination contracts. As firms tend to avoid refunding by delaying final determination of prices these funds accumulate into substantial sums which have been characterized as "windfall working capital."

West Point QM Meeting

Members of the West Point, N. Y., Chapter, The Quartermaster Association, were urged to "use the marketing arts to sell America to our friends overseas and counteract Soviet propaganda" by Mr. W. W. Wachtell, principal speaker at the recent annual Association dinner.

Mr. Wachtell also applauded the greater understanding now existing between business and the military and said, "This will tend toward closer cooperation in the national interest."

New Voodoo Contract

The McDonnell Aircraft Corporation has announced that orders for three versions of the supersonic F-101 Voodoo, just received from the Air Force, has boosted the company backlog to an all-time high figure of $601,032,000, of which $310,446,210 is authorized for expenditure at this time.

The new contract just signed amounts to over $330,000,000. This amount is exclusive of spare parts, ground handling and training equipment for the new order.

USN Contracts For LCU's

The Navy has let a contract with the Bethlehem Steel Company's Staten Island Yard for construction of two utility landing craft. They will be 115 feet long, have 24-foot beams and displace 200 tons.

Ordnance Engrs. See Ballistic Test Station

Technical representatives of principal government ordnance agencies attended a two-day seminar 29 and 30 Sept. at American Machine & Foundry Company's Ballistic Test Station at Colorado Springs, Colo., to discuss Army and Navy-sponsored ordnance research and development projects and witness extensive demonstration firings of ordnance equipment.

The first of its kind to be undertaken by AMF's Ballistic Test Station, the two-day seminar was attended by technical representatives from the Chicago Ordnance District, Frankford Arsenal, Navy Bureau of Ordnance, Office of Chief of Ordnance, Ordnance Weapons Command, Picatinny Arsenal, Redstone Arsenal, Springfield Armory and Watervliet Arsenal.

Dr. LeVan Griffith, Director of AMF's Mechanics Research Department, Chicago, and A. D. Kafadar, Manager of the Thermodynamics and Heat Transfer Group, planned the meetings.

Key AMF executives attending included Fred K. Powell, jr., vice president in charge of engineering; W. G. Leonard, director of engineering operations; Andrew J. Favret, Director of Planning, Defense Products Group, and H. A. Oldenkamp, director of AMF's General Engineering Laboratories.

Services and Industry Will Discuss Global Logistic Support at Symposium

Problems of global logistic support will be discussed by representatives of the Army, Navy and Air Force at the first Joint Military-Industry Packaging and Materials Handling Symposium to be held 10, 11 and 12 Oct. in the Commerce Department Auditorium, Washington, D. C.

Speakers on global support will include Maj. B. F. Hayford, USA, VADM. R. P. Briscoe, USN, and Maj. Gen. J. P. Doyle, USAF.

Following a welcoming address by Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, Military and Industry keynoters will be Thomas P. Pike, Assistant Secretary of Defense, (Supply and Logistics) and V. de P. Gobeau, Vice President of Radio Corporation of America.

Research and development in the field of military packaging and materials handling will be discussed by RADM. F. R. Furth, USN, Chief of Naval Research.

Military developments in teflon, inhibitors, air drop and temperature control packages which have potential industrial application will be covered in papers by V. G. FitzSimmons, Naval Research Laboratory, Capt. Cecil W. Hospelhorn, Quartermaster Research and Development Command, J. J. Nussdorfer, Arthur D. Little Co., and Lt. Donald S. Martin, Wright Air Development Center.

Unitization, weight reduction, automation, and dehumidified storage will be some of the subjects covered on the final day during 12 round table conferences. Chairmen for the conferences will include Cdr. G. L. Griffin, SC, USN, Special Assistant to the Director, Procurement Division, Office of Naval Material, USN, Cdr. R. E. Fullam, Supply Research and Development Facility, Bayonne, N. J., USN, and Charles A. Nebel, Chief, Field Services Branch, General Traffic Division, Office of Chief of Transportation, USA.

Obituaries

Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, USAR-Ret.

Funeral services for Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, USAR-Ret., who died on 3 Oct., at a New York City hospital, were held at Temple Emanu-El, New York City, on 6 Oct., with burial at Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C. He was 62 years old.

Born at Chattanooga, Tenn., General Adler joined the staff of the New York Times in 1914, later becoming Vice-President and Treasurer and finally, General Manager. He was also President and publisher of the Chattanooga Times.

His military career began as a private at the Plattsburg, N. Y. Training Camp in 1915. Two years later, he became a 2d lieutenant of Cavalry and went overseas when, as a member of the 77th Infantry Division, he was gassed in the Argonne Offensive. General Adler advanced in rank in the Reserves in the years between the two World Wars, serving with the 44th, the 4th and the 6th Divisions. During WWII, when serving as Assistant Division Commander of the 6th Infantry Division, he became seriously ill and was flown from New Guinea to Washington where he underwent surgery at Walter Reed Army Hospital. General Adler was President of the Senior Reserve Commanders Association, AUS, and was Chairman of the National Security Training Commission. The soldier-newspaperman ended his 40-year military career in 1954 and was retired from active duty as Commanding General of the 77th Infantry Division, having reached the mandatory retirement age of 62.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara D. Adler of 2 E. 67th St., New York City; one son, Julius O. Adler, Jr., director of Canadian advertising for The Times; two daughters, Mrs. Myron I. Buchman and Miss Nancy Jean Adler; his mother, Mrs. Ada Ochs Adler; and two grandchildren.

On behalf of President Eisenhower, Mr. James Hagerly sent a message to Mrs. Adler, as did the Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and many others, all expressing a profound sense of loss to the Nation in General Adler's passing.

Brig. Gen. Charles M. Ankorn, USA-Ret.

Funeral services for Brig. Gen. Charles M. Ankorn, USA-Ret., who died on 1 Oct., were held at Bethesda, Md., on 4 Oct. Burial was at Palouse, Wash. He was 62 years old.

A native of Palouse, General Ankorn was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry in 1917, and served with the American forces in Germany, following WWI. He attended the Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga., from which he was graduated in 1924, later becoming Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the State College of Washington. In 1934, he was graduated from the Command and General Staff College. During WWII, General Ankorn was named Commanding Officer of the 157th Infantry Regiment and in June 1943, took it overseas, leading it in the fighting in Sicily. The following September, he was seriously wounded in action, which resulted in the loss of a leg. He was retired from active duty in December 1944.

At the time of his death, General Ankorn was civilian Assistant Chief of the Supply Branch, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics, Department of the Army.

He is survived by three daughters, the Misses Eleanor Jean Ankorn of Westwood Village, Calif., Mary Jane Ankorn and Amanda Lee Ankorn, both of 9701 E. Bexhill Dr., Kensington, Md.; two sisters and two brothers.

Col. John McD. Thompson, USA-Ret.

Burial services were held at Arlington National Cemetery, on 5 Oct. for Col. John McD. Thompson, USA-Ret., who died, after an extended illness, on 1 Oct., at Clearwater, Fla. He was 61 years old.

Born at Washington, D. C., Colonel Thompson was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in the Class of 1915, and was assigned to the 5th U. S. Cavalry, with which he served in the Mexican Punitive Expedition. Colonel Thompson was a graduate of the Cavalry School, Ft. Riley, Kans., and of the Command and General Staff College, before doing post-graduate work at the University of Michigan and receiving his M. S. degree, in 1935. From 1935 to 1940, he commanded the Normoyle Quartermaster Depot, and served as Quartermaster with Headquarters of the Armored Force, from 1940-43. Transferred to Ordnance in 1943, Colonel Thompson was named Commanding Officer of the Normoyle Ordnance Depot and the following year, assumed command of the Augusta Arsenal, in which capacity he served until his retirement from active duty for physical disability, in 1945.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Chase Thompson of 1412 Osceola Ave., Clearwater; one son, J. McD. Thompson, Jr., of Stowe, Vt.; one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Gates of Clearwater; a brother, Mr. Frederick A. Thompson of Washington; and three grandchildren.

Col. Floyd Emerson Galloway, USAF-Ret.

Funeral services for Col. Floyd Emerson Galloway, USAF-Ret., who died on 19 Sept., at Paris, Ky., after a brief illness, were held at his home, Glen Iris Farm, Paris, followed by interment at the Paris Cemetery.

Born at Falmouth, Ky., 10 Sept. 1890, the son of Grant and Alice Galloway, he attended the University of Kentucky. From 1914 to 1917 he was a fibre specialist with the Philippine government. Colonel Galloway was commissioned in the Regular Army in 1917 and during WWI, served with the 31st Infantry in Siberia. In 1921, he transferred to the Air Service. He was an alumnus of the Air Service Pilots School, the Air Service Observation School, the Air Corps Tactical School, the Command and General Staff College and the Army War College. He was a Command Pilot. Colonel Galloway's 29 years of service included the command of Bolling, Maxwell, Albrook Fields and, in 1942-43, the Caribbean Air Service Command. He was retired for physical disability in 1947.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha Gardner Galloway of Glen Iris Farm, Paris; one son, Lt. Floyd E. Galloway, Jr., USAF, of Lincoln AFB, Nebr.; two daughters, Mrs. Shelby W. Darbishire of Mexico City, Mex., and Miss Patton Galloway of Paris; three grandchildren, four brothers and two sisters.

Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond

GENERAL duty officers who still have examinations to complete in their permanent rank column of Table I (a) of Personnel Circular No. 17-53 and special duty officers who have examinations to complete in their special duty category who did not participate in the promotion examination program in September will need to take the tests in January and May 56 to meet the requirement of two examinations per fiscal year, Headquarters advises.

The 9 Jan. Seamanship test will be based on the revised correspondence course, NavPers 10923 A. Applications submitted for this course should show NavPers 10923 A in lieu of 10923 shown in the Personnel Circular.

Headquarters states that officers should not plan to take promotion examinations in Ordnance and Gunnery in January 56. The correspondence course, NavPers 10922-A, now being issued by the Naval Correspondence Course Center, is not sufficient preparation for the test and additional study material is not yet available for distribution.

New Register Out

The 1 July 55 Register of Commissioned and Warrant Officers is in print and is being distributed to those whose names are listed.

It is expected that distribution will be completed by the end of next week except to those officers aboard ships at sea and on duty at Loran stations. Additional copies may be obtained for $.75 by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The '55 Register contains a new column which shows the year in which individual officers were commissioned in their present ranks. In addition, the four pay grades, set up by the Warrant Officer Act of 54, are listed in separate sections, rather than being lumped together as was the case in the 1 July 54 Register.

Colonel Yankey was born in Atlanta, Ga., on 27 Jan. 1916, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Worth E. Yankey. He was graduated from the University of Georgia with a B.S. degree, having majored in Commerce. He was a member of the Sigma Epsilon fraternity. He took his graduate work at the Harvard School of Business Administration.

Colonel Yankey entered on active duty with the Army in July 1940. His first important assignment was in charge of Estimates for the Clothing and Equipage Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, where he developed a superior and efficient system for making estimates to Congress. In June 1942 he went to the European Theater of Operations and, for a time, served in the Office of the Chief Quartermaster. Later, he became the representative of the Chief Quartermaster at Supreme Headquarters, a position he held throughout the war. In September 1945, Colonel Yankey returned to the United States and, in January 1946, went on inactive status. For the next five years he was Assistant Manager and Operator of the Liberal Gas Co., Liberal, Kans. He was recalled to active duty in March 1951 with the Army General Staff, Department of Logistics, where he served until July 1955, when he was selected and assigned to the American Military Group for Cambodia. Colonel Yankey was a graduate of the Associate Quartermaster Officers Advanced Course at Ft. Lee, Va.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Kay Yankey of 2801 Quebec St., N.W., Washington, D. C., who was formerly from England; one daughter by a former marriage, Nina, and his stepmother, Mrs. W. E. Yankey of Atlanta.

Mr. Tally McKewn Albergetti

Funeral services were held at his home at Blacksburg, S. C., for Mr. Tally McKewn Albergetti, father of Col. Julian S. Albergetti, USA, of Ft. Bliss, Tex., and Col. William M. Albergetti, USA, of Nurnberg, Germany, who died on 21 Sept. at the Devine Saviour Hospital, York, S. C., following a heart attack. Burial was in the family plot at Mountain View Cemetery, Blacksburg. He was 86 years old.

A native South Carolinian, Mr. Albergetti, who was affectionately known as "Captain" to his many friends all over the world, was a retired railroad man. He was the son of Thomas Capers Albergetti, a lieutenant in Hampton's Legion of the Confederate States Army. Throughout his life, Mr. Albergetti was a great supporter of the military, taking an alert interest in everything pertaining to the career of his two sons.

In addition to his two sons, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. S. C. Lattimore of Blacksburg; one sister, Miss Mae Albergetti of Orangeburg, S. C., and three grandchildren, Lt. J. S. Albergetti, Jr., of Brooke Army Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., Billy Lattimore of Blacksburg, and Betty Albergetti of Nurnberg.

Col. Ola Walter Bell, USA-Ret.

Burial services were held at Calvary Cemetery, St. Louis, Mo., on 26 Sept., for Col. Ola Walter Bell, USA-Ret., who died of pneumonia at the Thayer Veterans Hospital, Nashville, Tenn., on 21 Sept. He was 84 years old.

Born at Glendale, Mich., Colonel Bell was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1896, and assigned to the Cavalry. He served with the 3d Cavalry during the Spanish-American War and in the Philippine Insurrection. From 1905 to 1909, he served with the Quartermaster Corps. Assigned to the 14th Cavalry in 1909, he served again in the Philippines and later with the 14th in Texas on Border Patrol duty. His service included that of Professor of Military Science and Tactics at both State College, Pa., and the University of Chicago. From 1922 to 1926, Colonel Bell was in charge of National Guard Affairs at the Third Corps Area, Baltimore, Md., and from 1926 to 1930, he was on duty with the Reserve 102d Division, St. Louis, Mo. He was a graduate of the Mounted Service School, the Army School of the Line and the Command and General Staff College. Colonel Bell was retired from active duty in 1935.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. K. C. Beck, Jr., of Ft. Holabird, Md.

Organic Aviation Boosts Army Power

Continental Army Command, and supporting units. Physical facilities of the Center are large. In addition to over 150 buildings, utilized for housing troops and equipment, the Center has all types small arms ranges and sufficient reservation area on which to conduct artillery firing missions. Such missions are conducted frequently in training the artillery unit assigned to the Center, as well as instructing aviation student personnel in observation of artillery fire.

THE ARMY AVIATION SCHOOL has approximately 850 students in residence, and has the mission of instructing and training officers, warrant officers, and enlisted personnel of all components of the Army in the duties of Army aviation personnel and in the employment of Army aviation by the various branches in which it is authorized. The School utilizes approximately 500 aircraft based at the Center, and trains personnel in both fixed and rotary wing flying. In fact, its rotary wing training department is probably the largest of its kind in the world. It also develops and standardizes the instruction and training of officers, warrant officers, and enlisted personnel in techniques and tactics relating to Army aviation.

In flying over 1,000 hours per training day from its Camp Rucker fields and heliports, the Army Aviation Center is believed to be the busiest air base in the country, if not the world.

In addition, the Army Aviation School develops and prepares for dissemination to the Armed Forces, Army aviation doctrine, technique, and tactics, assists in the development of Army aviation equipment, and prepares, revises, and administers Army aviation extension literature and other special training publications required by the Department of Defense.

Under the direction of the Commandant, who also serves as the Center Commander, the School maintains necessary liaison with other schools and agencies of the Department of Defense and disseminates to the Armed Forces information pertaining to instruction and training methods and materials developed at the School.

THE ARMY AVIATION CENTER supports Board Number 6, CONARC, in its testing and evaluation of proposed and existing Army aviation equipment.

The 351st Regimental Combat Team, while fulfilling its mission of maintaining combat readiness, supports the Army Aviation School and its activities. Students of the School learn Army aviation tactics and duties by furnishing aviation support to the Regimental Combat Team. In turn, the RCT trainees learn to utilize Army aviation.

Why do we have a Center with such extensive as well as intensive aviation activity? Although the first use of organic aviation by our Armed Forces dates back only to the Civil War, the unprecedented expansion being experienced in the Army aviation field today is due to a premise which has existed since the beginning of warfare. The premise is "that the Army with the greatest mobility has the advantage."

ACTIVITIES OF ARMY AVIATION during World War II, i.e., light aircraft which were organic to ground organizations, were limited largely to aerial observation and courier work. With the fast development of the rotary wing type aircraft following World War II, the possibility of moving troops without encountering the obstacles inherent in surface transportation was presented. During the Korean conflict the Army proved conclusively that both personnel and equipment could be moved rapidly on a large scale by use of helicopters. This type of movement provided an unparalleled potential increase in Army mobility. Since the Korean conflict the Army has been organizing, as fast as trained personnel and equipment became available, aviation units which are capable of giving the Army its required increase in mobility.

With the advance of technology and constantly increasing demand for avia-

NEW TYPE of general wear raincoat to be worn by Army personnel is lighter in weight and presents a better appearance for off-duty wear. It can be folded into a more compact package than the raincoat now in use. The new raincoat is made of 1.8-ounce nylon, coated on the inside with polyvinyl-butylal, taupe shade, double-breasted, with belt and shoulder loops. It is modeled by M/Sgt. Stuart A. Queen, (host narrator for the Big Picture television series).

tion support with which to increase Army mobility, it became imperative that an Army Aviation Center be established to act as the focal point for the correlation of new developments in doctrine and materiel. Thus it was that the Army Aviation Center was established at Camp Rucker, Ala., on 1 February 1955.

THROUGH THE USE OF ORGANIC AVIATION, the Army has the means to increase its mobility and striking power a thousand fold, and the Army Aviation Center, with its Aviation School, research personnel, and supporting troops, is training Army personnel in aviation duties and assisting in the aviation technological research necessary to furnish the type organic aviation required.
